OUR 74TH YEAR, NO. 52

December 23, 1988

The Year in Review — 1988

THE YEAR 1988 started off rather slowly, but picked up steam as it progressed, especially in early February, when Mayor Clint Eastwood announced he would not seek a second term.

That announcement set off a scramble by mayoral hopefuls; by the time the dust had settled six candidates — some oh-so familiar, others not exactly household names — had thrown their hats into the ring. There were other candidates, for other races too: Jack Skillicorn, county auditor and longtime Carmelite, would oppose another longtime Carmelite, state Assemblyman Sam Farr; Carmel attorney Ron Parravano would vie for a judgeship; 5th District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman was a candidate too, but she ran unopposed; Rep. Leon Panetta sought re-election and won easily.

And we all know how the Carmel (and that other) election turned out.

There were other attention-grabbing developments throughout the year: the construction and subsequent opening of the beach walkway, Paul Laub's seemingly endless squabbles with the city, the closing of the Hog's Breath for health violations, the financial collapse of the Monterey Film Festival, the purchase by the city of the controversial Handley property, Father Junipero Serra getting beatified...the list goes on.

But the two local issues on most everyone's minds in 1988 were: water and the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway. By the end of 1988 we were faced with the imposition of water rationing and the Coastal Commission helped Caltrans clear a major hurdle in its efforts to get the $26 million project built.

Because of its long-range implications and its direct effect on residents of the Carmel area, we'd like to nominate the Hatton Canyon Freeway as the most significant issue of 1988, followed closely by the "water issue."

And if you have only one wish for the new year, you may want to consider this: "Let it rain, let it rain, let it rain."

Have a merry Christmas and we wish you peace and prosperity in the New Year...from all of us here at the Carmel Pine Cone. We'll see you in 1989.

The Year in Review — 1988:

JANUARY

The Odello family unveils new plans for the development of their artichoke fields east of Highway 1. The development, called Coast Ranch, will include housing for seniors, with a restaurant, farmer's market and some employee housing.

Former city council member David Maradei's application for a height variance is turned down by the city council with a bang. Worldwide news media reports that in doing so Mayor Clint Eastwood settles an "old score."

Ekelin & Associates win the bid for construction of the beach walkway.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors reject a recommendation to reduce the number of citizen advisory groups within the county government.

NOT ONLY was the proposed $26 million Hatton Canyon Freeway the most significant local issue of 1988, but it was also the subject of the winning entry in this year's Carmel

Sand Castle Contest. It featured the image of Neptune opening a Pandora's Box to reveal a freeway streaming out to form the words "INEPTUNE." (Mac McDonald photo.)

Assemblyman Sam Farr forms a citizen advisory group to address concerns over the Hatton Canyon Freeway project. Special considerations are given to merchants at the mouth of the valley and Rio Road residents.

FEBRUARY

Carmel's celebrity mayor Clint Eastwood announces he will not seek a second term. Six candidates file for his seat: Clayton Anderson, Jean Grace, Tim Grady, Paul Blaine Henrie, Paul Laub and Michael Kovac.

Carmel resident and county auditor Jack Skillicorn tosses his hat into the ring, opposing Assemblyman Sam Farr for his seat in the 28th Congressional District.

Simic Gallery owner Mario Simic calls in local police and the FBI to investigate the theft of four paintings by Edouard Cortes, worth $150,000.

It is during its investigation at this time that the FBI is alerted to the possible fraudulent nature of several paintings by French artist Paul Valere.

The Big Sur Land Trust backs out of negotiations for 1,100 acres of land in Carmel Valley, citing complicated legal problems concerning the land.

Owners of the land, known as the Westbrook property, want to log the hillsides, while the adjacent landowner, John Murphy claims the land is actually his.

The Carmel City Council hears a report from its parking committee regarding an underground parking garage to be located at Sunset Center.

Instead of selecting a contractor, the committee recommends soliciting professional help in reviewing the final designs.

Carmel residents are first asked to consider a countywide emergency service district at a Carmel City Council meeting.

Many residents express fears that their current provider, the American Red Cross, will no longer serve their needs for free.

Election time: Councilman Bob Evans decides against running for office. The six who do file for the two council seats are planning commissioners Carla Belgrano Ramsey, Howard Nieman and Ken White; David Larkin; John Kennedy; and James Ogle.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District includes the study of new wells in upper Carmel Valley in its environmental impact report/statement about the proposed dam.

The Sombosa Koren Buddhist Temple in Carmel Valley burns to the ground along with priceless religious and art objects inside.

Businessman and mayoral candidate Paul Laub gets an injunction against the city so he can keep his store Clintville open and unchanged for a while longer. The city claims that Laub's store and businesses in the Paradise Building violate city code.

MARCH

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District asks for 10 percent voluntary water use reduction because this water year is now declared "critically dry."

Carmel Mayor Clint Eastwood starts politicking for his candidate, Jean Grace, when he writes a column citing a 25-year-old incident in Clayton Anderson's career when Anderson left the Washington State parks department. Anderson responds by bringing accounts and witnesses that are in his favor.

The eight Carmel City Council candidates air their views during a forum sponsored by The Pine Cone.

Parking, or lack thereof, takes up most of the forum.

The concept of a city-run parking garage is advocated by Councilman Jim Wright, who says that until that idea is explored, it should not be abandoned.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman decides to run for a second term of office.

Toots Lagoon owner Eddie Johnson bemoans the fact that there is a line of 30 people waiting to use his restroom on weekends.

He asks the Carmel City Council for reduced hours in keeping his restrooms open — part of his use permit. The council refuses.

AMBAG releases a study recommending that area businesses increase efforts to curb traffic problems.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District opts against strict water rationing measures.

Assemblyman Sam Farr conducts a public

10,000 trees

Dear Editor:

The seeds in the forest lay dormant in the loam.
Seedlings sprout, a slow dig through damp dirt to birth.
Fusion with earth, and now, a measured growth to sky to sky.
Oh how we love the sky, and reach it we will with green glee.

Mirrors mirrors, shining more light upon our own faulted faces.
We dread Amazonian deforestation, oh don't we,
Yet we need to move traffic to fulfill appointments;
Let's build a scenic freeway, a concrete memorial,
a groaning half tube of our definition of progress, to save half an hour and spend more dough for con/de-struction.

As our canyon grew, the animated witnesses were few, at first.
But life breeds life, and the synergetic cycle expanded;
Fawn, raccoon, squirrel and rodent, worm, sparrow, mountain cat,
We all blended splendidly, fauna and plants is where it's at.

Photosynthesis is nature's yang for the yin we yank out of it.
If only our intuition would lead us to stay in balance...
Oh baby, we can slide 1,000 tons of asphalt into that gorge,
And she'll drain just like a sewer pipe, ha!
How many trees must yield to the axe before we realize suicidal acts?
Remember when we used to play "Nam" in Hatton Canyon? No homes around.

There's a low droning noise constantly coming closer now, encroaching.
We of the wooded living want to survive, and we're scarred and scared.
We post no legal defense, nor bear arms, on-ly cones and seeds.
Some of you do know, and do care...please do not forsake us. We are 10,000 trees.

A special Christmas

Dear Editor:

I just wanted to thank someone who made my Christmas, and stay in Carmel very special.
Tom Beldun — usher at Sunset Center. 12-11 — I sat outside from 4:30, as a Christmas carol musical performed at 7 p.m. I knew all were reserved seats, as Mr. Beldun came to the door I hurried, and asked was there any chance of my getting a good seat, as I have cataracts and can't see too good.
He said maybe someone would cancel last minute. To my surprise I got a ticket three rows back from stage. I didn't know till I showed him my ticket. He had talked to the ticket Lady. I was like a child in a candy store. Tuesday the 13th I went and saw Little Women, and Mr. Beldun remembered me with a big smile.

What a wonderful person to make my Christmas. Thank you again, Tom.

Fighting City Hall

Dear Editor:

One determined local citizen, acting primarily on his own, has assured savings of literally millions of gallons of the underground water of the Salinas Valley aquifer in years ahead.

Recently, Arthur Mittledorf, co-chairman of the Conservation Committee of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club, personally sued the City of Soledad to overturn its planning commission's approval of a proposed new power plant. Mittledorf pointed out in the lawsuit handled for him by Pacific Grove attorney, Jane Haines, that operation of the plant, as originally designed, would consume each year nearly a quarter of the total amount of water used by the entire City of Soledad.

Builders of the plant, in an out-of-court settlement, agreed to redesign it to use only 182 acre feet of water yearly instead of the originally planned 272 acre feet — a reduction of more than 30 percent.

Surely an encouraging development in these drought-threatened days. And proof positive that the old adage is wrong. You can fight City Hall — and win!

What glamor?

Dear Editor:

The grotesque game of murdering animals and wearing them accelerates during this season of peace and prayer.

Women social climb with furs, believing the advertisers who promise instant status, instant sex appeal, instant glamor if their customers will wrap themselves in the expensive remains of animals.

When wild animals are trapped with steel spikes, baby seals are clubbed to death, a "Broadtail" coat is made from the fetus of Karakul sheep, beaten with rods to form premature births, when every death for fur is brutal, one wonders what social position? What sex appeal? What glamor?

Unjust system

Dear Editor:

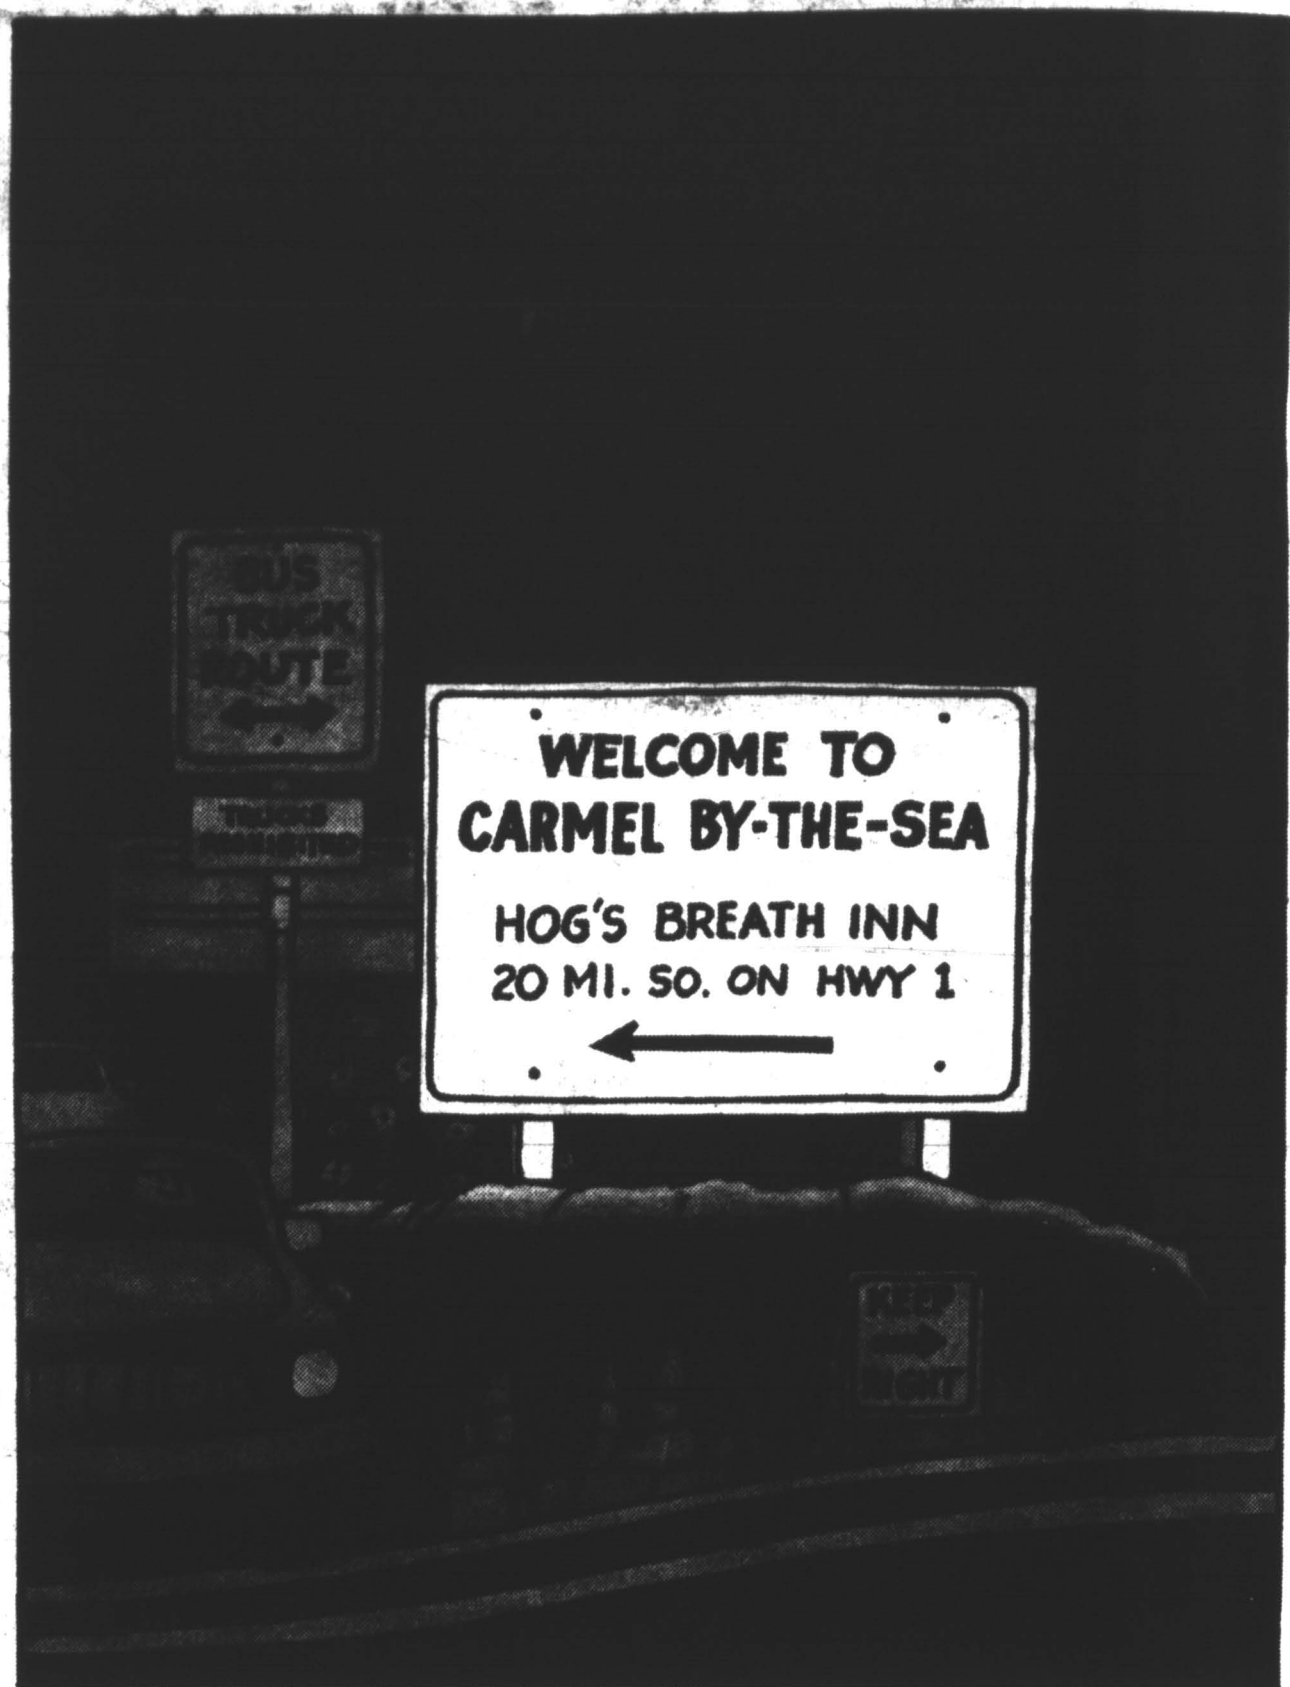

It was distressing to read the specious arguments put forward in defense of the rationing regulations adopted by the water management board.

Rationing by its very nature is never fair, depriving us as it does of free access to some desired entity. However, when constraints must be imposed it would seem mandatory that those constraints are equitable. What the board has approved is not equitable in any sense. Instead of placing the same limits upon all water users it establishes a graduated system that not only allows some persons to consume more than do others, it actually rewards those who wasted water in the past.

I recognize the necessity for rationing to control our almost unbridled consumption of a vital resource. What I do not understand is the imposition of an inherently unjust system that does not impose controls on individuals equally and which allocates a very large percentage of available water to non-essential watering of golf course fairways.

Making little sense

Dear Editor:

Skimping and harrasing each other to save water in our homes makes little sense when compared with the savings of water that other methods could save.

Try these questions on your water and sewer boards:

1. Along the Monterey peninsula, why do our major sewer systems continue to dump in the ocean more usable water than any Carmel River dam will provide water customers? This volume of advanced secondary water, processed with latest equipment, is estimated to be nearly 30,000 acre feet.

2. Why are the water agencies in our area only concentrating upon water gadgets for toilets and "educational" propaganda to pressure water savers to submit to badgering and often severe restrictions?

3. Why all the talk about allocation and rationing of water when the talk is only of drinking, or potable water supplies? Water use in our area actually needs less than 20 percent for drinking and cooking purposes. Yet we throw away as useless, or unmanageable, more usable water than we see delivered in our pipelines.

4. Why do we see so little water conservation being performed by our governmental agencies, schools, court houses, parks and playgrounds? Look at who owns the nice green lawns.

5. Why indeed do our water and sewer agencies fail to convert storm water or sewer water with reclaimed water for irrigation purposes? Why has it taken more than 10 years to convert our golf courses from drinking water quality supplies?

6. Finally, why don't we have a master water conservation plan for the county that is enforceable across the board for both urban and rural areas? Such a master plan was developed in 1984 and '85 but it is little more than a filed piece of paper.

If one can't get sensible answers to these questions, how can the public accept fault for being so unprepared at this stage of the multi-year drought and pay the heaviest penalty for mismanagement of water resources?

hearing on the Hatton Canyon Freeway project, so residents can air their concerns.

Caltrans reveals that it will construct an elevated portion of the Hatton Canyon Freeway at Rio Road.

APRIL

Mayor Clint Eastwood closes his two-year term in office with a lively meeting while news media from several countries look on.

The Carmel City Council reverses a planning commission decision when it states that a lot in the R-4 district can be rezoned.

Carmel-by-the-Sea elects Jean Grace mayor by a 276-vote margin over her nearest contender, Clayton Anderson. Grace receives 1,144 votes and Anderson, 868. There is a 58.4 percent turnout of Carmel voters with 2,141 votes in total.

Planning commission chairman and high school wrestling coach Ken White is top vote getter in the council race for two seats with incumbent James Wright next, keeping his place on the council. White garners 1,211 votes and Wright 1,159.

The Harrison Memorial Library board awards a $600,000 bid to Salinas-based Hampshire Construction Co. to renovate the Crocker Bank building into a branch of the Harrison Memorial Library. The library board states it hopes the branch will be open by September.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District decide on a "scope of work" for an environmental impact report on the distribution of water from a proposed Carmel Sanitary District water reclamation plant.

The Carmel City Council votes to support Measure A which would coordinate emergency medical services countywide.

Mayor-elect Jean Grace and councilmembers Ken White and James Wright are sworn in and Mayor Clint Eastwood turns over the gavel.

Howard Nieman resigns from planning commission, citing personal reasons. Nieman had been third in the council race for two seats.

Big Sur residents and county officials express approval this week for a final draft management plan which will govern the Los Padres National Forest.

Landscaping plan for controversial McFarland seawall is approved by the Carmel Planning Commission. The landscaping plan is the last step before McFarland can begin to build the seawall on the north end of the Carmel Beach to protect his empty home on the bluffs.

Jean White resigns from Cultural Commission after serving on it for more than 15 years. White cites her husband's recent election to the city council as a possible conflict of interest.

Carmel Public Works Superintendent Bill Askew announces his retirement after 42 years working for the department.

MAY

The future of the Monterey Film Festival is cast into serious doubt when a deficit of more than $182,000 is revealed by former festival treasurer Jack Skillicorn.

The Friends of the Carmel Unified Schools (FOCUS) comes through with flying colors when it raises $60,000 for varying programs for the district.

THE END of 1988 saw the impending imposition of water rationing by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District. The district distributed free water conservation kits such as those shown above to help in the rationing cause. Problems with water helped make the issue one of the most significant of 1988, and most likely one for 1989. (Chuck Scardina photo.)

Former film festival director David Bean files a lawsuit against the Monterey Film Festival alleging that the festival breached its agreement by barring him from the premises after he resigned in the spring of 1987. Bean is asking for $3,000 in damages.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District begins to distribute about 40,000 water conservation kits which include low-flow showerheads and toilet dams to district residences in a $660,000 water conservation program.

The Bank of America announces it will close its Carmel Valley Village branch office because it is, according to the bank, unprofitable. Village and valley residents and businesses protest the closing.

Opposition to Caltrans' plans for Hatton Canyon freeway surfaces, with a small group of citizens banding together to force further design changes.

The Carmel City Council decides to continue to conduct its meetings away from city hall so it can accommodate larger audiences. The council began to meet at the Carmel Woman's Club for its monthly meetings when Clint Eastwood became mayor and the council chambers couldn't handle the overflow crowds.

Carmel resident and attorney Ron Paravano tosses his hat into the ring for county judge, opposing Judge Alan Hedegard.

City residents and those from the sphere of influence begin to take sides on the possibility of annexation, with those in Carmel Point militantly against the proposition.

JUNE

U.S. District Court Judge Robert Aguilar denies Simic Galleries' request for a restraining order to suspend a Federal Bureau of Investigation's art fraud probe into whether or not works signed by French artist Paul Valere is actually a group of painters. Gallery owner Mario Simic states he believes the investigation was triggered by a group that has been harrasing his gallery.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman runs for a second term unopposed.

The Carmel City Council awards a $1,802,452 bid for the construction of an underground garage and the Fifth Avenue and Dolores Street senior citizen housing complex to Ekelin & Associates of Salinas.

Carmel Valley Property Owners Association asks the Bank of America to delay closing of its branch office in Carmel Valley Village for 90 days. The CVPOA and Carmel Valley residents are looking for another bank to open a branch in the village. The bank complies with the request.

The Monterey Board of Supervisors reject a proposal for a half-cent tax increase on the November ballot. The tax would have been used for transportation improvements.

The Carmel City Council approves a new design ordinance for second stories in the commercial district that increases requirements for setbacks, open space and landscaping.

California-American Water Co. announces that water production is down by 4 percent.

The Carmel City Council approves a projected budget of $7,086,000 which anticipates a 3.5 percent decrease in hostelry tax. Called a "budget of controversy," The budget proposes 20 percent cuts in social and cultural grants and sets aside money in the capital improvements section for payments on either the Handley property or a garage at Sunset Center.

The Pebble Beach Co. riles Pebble Beach homeowners when it begins grading for parking lots along the shoreline at 17 Mile Drive between Spanish Bay and Bird Rock without a permit. The company claims the Coastal Commission required the parking lots as part of it approval of Spanish Bay hotel and condominium projects.

The CUSD announces that it will seek a parcel tax from local property owners in order to carry out capital improvements needed for the district.

The county board of supervisors is told that portions of Carmel Valley Road have reached their traffic limit.

Some valley residents fear that a building moratorium could take place, under the guidelines of the Carmel Valley Master Plan. The supervisors discuss the idea of imposing a sales tax in order to fund much-needed construction on the road.

Mikel Pippi, former executive director of the Monterey Film Festival lashes out at his critics, who denounce his lavish spending tactics.

Instead, Pippi blames poor attendance and the lack of a corporate sponsor for the festival ending up $180,000 in the red.

The state Senate fails to pass legislation that would ban the dumping of toxic wastes from Kesterson Reservoir off of the Big Sur Coast.

Sen. Henery Mello vows to reintroduce the bill, citing environmental concerns toward marine wildlife.

The city is notified that it could lose millions of dollars if it allows a private contractor to build an underground garage at Sunset Center. Moreover, the same report reveals that if the city builds the garage itself, it will not realize any profits for at least a dozen years.

County supervisors OK plans for increased visitor accommodations at the Stonepine Resort in Carmel Valley, despite objections from area Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman.

At the same time, the CVPOA files an appeal of the ruling, expressing fears of increased traffic with more than double the number of visitors now allowed at the resort.

The California Department of Forestry states that danger from fire in these dry times is high.

Phase II of the $1.64 million Carmel Beach restoration is completed and the city opens its new decomposed granite walkway along the bluffs. The project installed new storm drains, shored up the cliffs, provided wash-off stations and handicapped access. The walkway includes drought-tolerant plants and is designed to blend into the environment.

JULY

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District announced that water consumption is down about 9 percent though drought conditions continue.

The Carmel City Council imposes a moratorium filing for permits for new second units. A state law makes second units legal if a municipality does not have a law specifically prohibiting them.

Carmel Cutlery is burglarized and robbed twice in a week.

During a townhall meeting in Pebble Beach, more than 250 angry residents taunt company officials for their part in allowing grading to take place at Bird Rock.

Though the project had been halted by the county by the time the meeting took place, residents took offense to the company marring the land at will.

The Monterey County Film Festival, $180,000 in debt, elects Michael Albov as its new board president.

Albav vows to contact each of the 82 creditors to see if they will forego the festival's debt. By doing that he hopes to gauge community support for the beleaguered film festival.

Caltrans reveals that the long-awaited environmental impact statement for the Hatton Canyon Freeway will be delayed until it is scrutinized by the state Coastal Commission in September at its meeting in San Diego.

Monterey County imposes several conditions on the Pebble Beach Co. for its illegal grading at Bird Rock.

A consortium of Carmel Valley residents begin to woo outside banking facilities in order to replace the departing Bank of America.

The CVPOA sends out a survey seeking resident response on the village banking problem.

The water district's environmental impact report for the New San Clemente Dam reveals that the district will grow by 34 percent if total buildout is allowed.

A group of Pebble Beach residents file a $10 million lawsuit against the Pebble Beach Co., claiming property devaluation because of the company's actions.

Construction begins on the underground garage at the senior citizen housing site at the corner of Dolores Street and Fifth Avenue. Work on the garage is expected to take about six months, the work on the housing units will begin.

AUGUST

County supervisors sidestep a building moratorium in Carmel Valley and instead set new traffic levels for Carmel Valley Road.

Peninsula residents band together at a State Lands Commission meeting in Monterey in voicing displeasure with the prospect of offshore oil drilling.

A CVPOA survey reveals that Carmel Valley Village residents support the idea of an established bank to replace the departing B of A.

Caltrans conducts several open houses for residents to view models of the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway project.

Carmel police become the only city law enforcement agency in the county to utilize a new and improved version of the 911 system. Instead of emergency calls being routed through other agencies before coming to Carmel, the new system guarantees direct access to callers.

The Carmel City Council forms a non-profit corporation as the financial vehicle to buy the Thomas Handley property on Junipero Avenue. Negotiations between the city and property owner Handley continue.

French painter Paul Valere arrives in Carmel and meets the press and the public at Simic Galleries. A federal Grand Jury continues an investigation into art fraud.

Carmel Valley farmers find themselves facing financial and crop problems due to the drought.

Former Carmel Mayor and political activist Gunnar Norberg dies Aug. 17 at the age of 81.

Carmel River Lagoon closed because of pollution from natural animal and human waste. The lagoon has become standing water because of lowered the water levels due to the drought.

The Hog's Breath Inn is closed by the health department, something that makes a stir worldwide because Clint Eastwood is a part owner of the restaurant/bar.

Caltrans announces that the location for the state Coastal Commission to hear the Hatton Canyon Freeway issue has been moved to San Diego.

Originally slated to be heard in San Francisco, Caltrans now believes that it is falling behind schedule and does not want to wait until December when the commission convenes in San Francisco.

SEPTEMBER

In a report by the city staff, it is found that annexation of surrounding areas could cost the city as much as $420,219 for first-year start-up costs.

Carmel Planning Commission approves a second screen for the Carmel Village Theater.

The Carmel Planning Commission approves plans to demolish the 53-year-old Carmel Mobil Station on the corner of San Carlos Street and Eighth Avenue. The commission also approves a permit for owners Glenn and Marion Liedig to build a two-story apartment/retail complex on the site.

The Hog's Breath Inn reopens.

Former Carmel schoolboy, Ben Oyler, who attracted national attention before he died of AIDS, is portrayed in a movie made for CBS.

In addition, his mother, Chris Oyler, also publishes a book chronicling the family's problems in dealing with the crisis.

The CVPOA comes out against the current Hatton Canyon Freeway design.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency revises its position on the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District's environmental impact statement on the proposed Carmel River dam. The EPA states that environmental enhancement can be a criteria in the EIS, lopping about six months off the rewriting process.

Dec. 29 meeting for input on Handley parking

THE CARMEL City Council voted Dec. 6 to convert the Handley property into a 70-space-maximum parking lot with some city storage facilities and two small parks.

The parking lot is temporary until the council determines a long-term use for the site.

To gain input from the public about the project, Greg D'Ambrosio, director of administrative services, is conducting a meeting from 2 to 4 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 29 to show three different plans for landscaping and design of the parking lot. Citizens are encouraged to attend.

Aspects of the project still under discussion include where the second mini-park should be located.

One will be on the northeast corner of the property, which has a spectacular panoramic view of Point Lobos, the city and the Pacific Ocean.

The city will tear down one shed that blocks the view and probably will use the remaining sheds on the property for city storage.

The council delays a decision on legalization of subordinate units until after a January study session on the matter.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors vote to spend $110,000 on a disaster relief plan.

Architect Joyce Stevens resigns from the Hatton Advisory Committee citing stubborn attitude of Caltrans officials.

Carmel-by-the-Sea voters approve Measure A by more than a two-thirds margin. Measure A asked voters if they want to have paramedic services.

Carmel-by-the-Sea returns to a full-time code enforcement officer — called a code compliance coordinator.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District approves an ordinance that paves the way for 20 percent rationing in the coming new year. The ordinance is for Phase III rationing, with Phase IV being the most serious situation.

The Pebble Beach Co. gets a grading permit from Monterey County for its new parking lots for Spanish Bay hotel/condominium/golf course complex and angry Pebble Beach residents vow to fight the decision.

Carmel-by-the-Sea files for a $535,000 state grant for the rehabilitation of Flanders Mansion in Mission Trails Park and the California Office of Historic Preservation recommends the house for listing on the National Register of Architectural Merit.

Tularcitos School Principal Jim Kohnke, 49, dies from complications after surgery.

DECEMBER

An unscientific Carmel Pine Cone telephone survey shows a majority of Carmel residents favor widening Highway 1 as opposed to a Hatton Canyon freeway. The survey also shows that most feel traffic levels on Highway 1 and Rio Road are unacceptable.

The Carmel City Council gives final approval to the transient rental ordinance that prohibits rentals of 30 days or less of homes in the residential district. The ordinance gains nationwide attention and real estate agencies and some second home owners threaten lawsuits if the city attempts to enforce the new law.

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board gives final approval to Phase III rationing to begin Jan. 1. Phase III mandates a 20-percent reduction in water consumption.

Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman is seriously injured while waiting for the Carmel Valley Village holiday parade when the horse she is riding rears back and falls on top of her. Her injuries include a concussion, three fractured ribs and a compression fracture of the spine.

Carmel Heritage is granted $1,500 from National Trust to help hire a professional consultant to train volunteers for a survey of the city's historic and cultural sites.

The Carmel Planning Commission decides to eliminate solar rights, private view protection and a few other design review standards from the code rather than change the general plan.

The Carmel City Council votes to authorize the completion of the approximately $3 million financing for the purchase of the Thomas Handley property after more than a year of negotiations.

Local artist Paul "Shag" O'Rourke, 52, dies Dec. 7.

Despite last-minute pleas from Carmel officials, a handful of area residents and the U.S. government, the California Coastal Commission accepts certification of Caltrans' plans for the Hatton Canyon freeway project.

The Monterey County Superior Court orders an injunction against an absentee landowner, Arizona-based attorney John A. Murphy, to stop illegal grading and begin restoration on his property in the southern Carmel Valley hills.

Shirley Temple Black comes to Carmel store, Books, Inc., for a book signing and is warmly greeted by hundreds of peninsula residents who line up for autographs.

A Happy Christmas to all!

BIENIALLY, THE Monterey Bay Chapter of the American Institute of Architects bestows Honor and Merit Awards for projects from Big Sur to Salinas to Santa Cruz. The awards ceremony was held during the MBAIA's annual Christmas dinner in the glass and stone Seascap Room at Asilomar Conference Center.

Emcee Richard Fedelem, outgoing MBAIA president, started by introducing two of the three contest judges attending — Warren Thompson and Rick Morrall (Sunset magazine building editor), and incoming president Jeanne Byrne (AIA) of Pacific Grove.

Mrs. Byrne, who sold "opportunity drawing" tickets "by the arm," asked Sarah Berry to draw stubs for the winners. Prizes included golf packages, blueprinting, more golf, lunches, dinners and Kenwood wine. Lucky Rick Morrall won two prizes. Then Mrs. Byrne gave gifts to Rick Fedelem for his leadership, to Danielle Laughman and office manager Sarah Berry.

Marvin Guillermo, grand sand marshal for the Great Sand Castle Contest held each year on Carmel Beach, co-sponsored with the City of Carmel, presented slides of the last contest.

Paul Davis, honors committee chair, was pleased with a record 30 entries and with the large number of winners — 11 in total. Mr. Davis introduced Warren Thompson of Fresno, National Board of AIA, who broke the suspense by announcing the winners as Paul showed slides of each project.

Citations went to Jacobowsky Hawkins Walker Associates for Cypress Community Church on Highway 68 and to ELS Design for student housing at DLI.

Receiving Awards of Merit: Jerome Kasavan Associates for Dudley's Bar and Grill; Belli & Christiansen AIA for Gavilan View Middle School; Holeywinski Blevins Fedelem & Lukes for Natividad Medical Center Neuropsychiatric Unit and The Paul Davis Partnership JHW Associates for Hotel Pacific in Monterey.

Honor Awards went to Bull Volkman Stockwell for The Inn at Spanish Bay; Marquis Associates for 2959 DPIC Building; Esherrick Homsey Dodge and Davis for Monterey Bay Aquarium; Richard K. Rhodes, Architects and Planners, for Palma Grove Homes at Markham Ranch and to Holeywinski Blevins Fedelem & Lukes for Sheriff's Public Safety Building.

Photos and drawings of all projects in competition were displayed for all to see as they entered the Seascap Room.

The blue and white volunteer aprons were out and holiday finery was in for members of the hard-working Cypress Chapter Auxiliary and their guests. A holiday dinner concluded the exciting season of volunteerism at Laguna Seca Raceway in continued support of Children's Services Center. The festive party was held in the Pebble Beach home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Garrett (an attractive stone house built in 1921).

Actually, the party began in the garage with guests admiring the antique cars collected by the Garretts. A Delahay (the Rolls Royce of France), and other cars of the past, lovingly and authentically restored, are nestled in a building with three Austrian stained glass windows and a row of chandeliers dangling from a beamed ceiling. A nice home for these works of transportation art.

During the evening, chapter president Elizabeth Brown of Carmel presented a check for $42,000 to CSC executive director Carole Biddle. An impressive amount considering it is only a portion of the $$$ raised by 30 Cypress Chapter members.

Noted, with gratitude, was the outstanding work of past president Beverly Morford (who headed the Laguna Seca Committee for three years), and Linda Dorris, who has presided over the CSC board of directors and chairperson of the Rick Cole Vintage Car Auction during the August Classic and Antique Car Races weekend.

A few nights later, Children's Services Center held its Fourth Annual Christmas Open House. The first in their new home at 648 Pine Ave., Pacific Grove. This is a potluck party where adults and children all have a great time at the same time. Many of the children are newly adopted and have benefited from the generosity of others. For instance, the crew of a Coast Guard cutter said, "We want to do something for the children." So they took 25 of them out for a bay cruise and let them drive the boat. What a thrill! The race drivers of Laguna Seca also held a party for them, letting them climb into the cars and get autographs from the drivers.

What it all adds up to is helping children have a good home and a good life.

'Tis the season to be jolly and we can't think of anybody jollier than each and every member of the Jesters of the MP Museum of Art. In this party-packed holiday season, 150 of them (with guests), came out for the Annual Jesters Christmas Jolly.

All had a jolly good time in the ballroom of the Monterey Plaza Hotel eating wonderful holiday foods and dancing to the music of the Do Do Wah Street Irregulars.

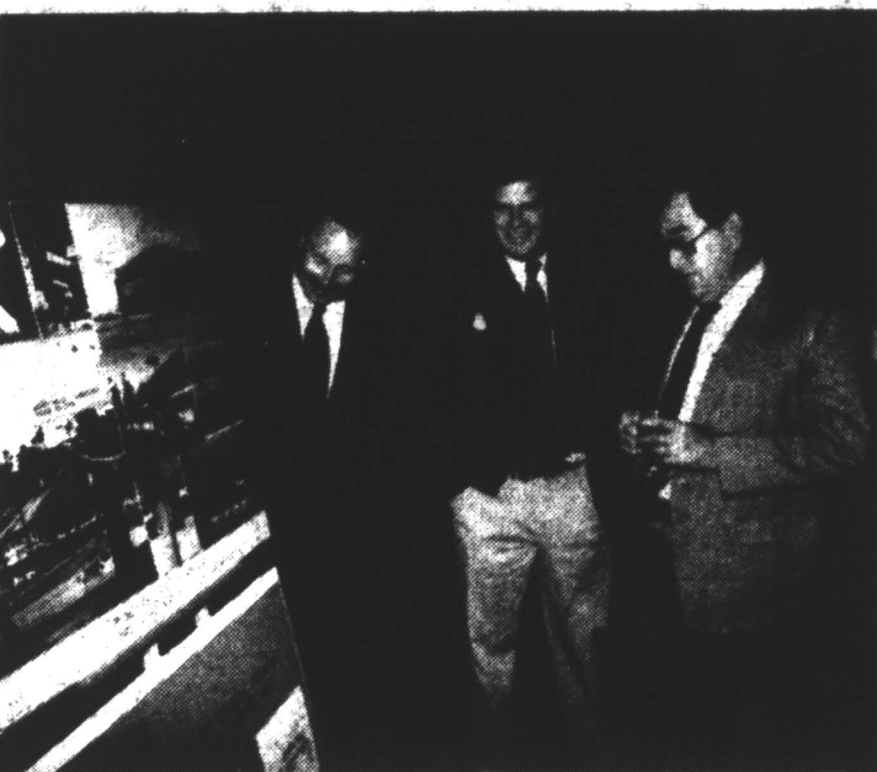

The Symphony Guild Christmas Ball, held at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club, was the 20th anniversary of this social gathering. Betty Healey started it all and, lo, 20 years later, Betty graciously consented to chair the ball again with the assistance of Gerry Borovilos. (Betty and her husband Howard have a big decision to make, whether to say "yes" or Pia and Clark Suttle surprised everyone by attending the Symphony Ball in lieu of going to Germany for the holidays. Michael Winter, symphony manager, came to the party with Mrs. Winter.

Many people wouldn't miss the Guild Ball for the world and thus it remains as popular as ever.

Tony Bennett sings (as we all know), and Tony Bennett travels. Tony Bennett also paints, and beautifully.

Actually, his interest in art began as a child and he planned to be a fine artist until a teacher convinced him he should sing instead. His desire to paint paralleled his successful career as a top entertainer and his colorful, bright art has been shown throughout the country for years.

Zantman Art Galleries gave a reception in Mr. B's honor and he was kept busy signing his lithographs and prints. When complimented on his artwork, he modestly said, "It's coming along."

When asked, "Will you leave your heart in Carmel?" he replied, "How could I not. It is so beautiful here." With his heart here, we can hope that he will return again and again.

Outgoing Big Sir (no, not big Sur — Big Sir), was Jack Dean of Pebble and now heading up "Sons in Retirement" (SIR) is Ralph Tober of Carmel. The non-profit organization is devoted to the promotion of independence and dignity of retirement.

The annual Christmas installation of new officers took place during Ladies Day Luncheon at The Lodge in Pebble Beach.

Although state president Jack Groo couldn't attend, state president-elect Russ Agnew and governor-elect Larry Peet (both of Salinas), installed the following officers: Ralph Tober (Big Sir); Ned Simpson of Pebble (Little Sir), Harvey Clark PB (secretary), Norm Ensminger PB (assistant secretary), Ralph Norback, Carmel (treasurer), and William Penich of PB (assistant treasurer).

The Bob Phillips Trio entertained some 200 Sirs and guests during the luncheon hour.

Far into the future but still near is the Gourmet Gala set for Jan. 14 in the Monterey Sheraton. "We went 50 years into the past for the Golden Anniversary Gourmet Gala last year," said theme chairman T. Scott Moore, "and, in '89 we are moving into the future with "Gourmet Galactica!"

Gus Arriola and Eldon Dedini designed the invitations for March of Dimes with familiar characters floating in outer space.

Celebrity chairpersons Charlene Etienne and Victoria Gott trekked all the way to the stars — the stars of Star Trek, that is, for celebrity chefs to sparkle in the futuristic kitchens created by local architects and interior designers with Linda Lamb and Jerry Welling heading that group.

William Shatner, George Takei and producer Harve Bennett come down to earth for the GG and super-trekker Dr. Buz Aldrin, veteran Gemini 12 and Apollo 11 flights (and Mrs. Aldrin), are in the lineup.

Michael Swan, who "Turns the World," will turn heads, as well David Hedison, his wife Bridget, Chris and Gina Lemmon, Tab Hunter, actress Elinor Donahue, Jay Acovone, Mrs. and Mrs. Doug McClure and Wil Wheaton. Also donning aprons are producer Harry Ackerman, Orville Wright from MCI Telecommunication and Dr. and Mrs. Sam Jacobellis (he's prexy of Aerospace Rockwell).

From our local roster of stars: Terry and Jacqueline Melcher and Anne Anka.

Co-chairs Laurie Hall and Artie Early are pleased that Ernest Borgnine will return as Honorary Chairman along with

EDITOR'S NOTE:

In the Dec. 20th issue of the Carmel Pine Cone the Junipero Serra School Students of the Month were inadvertently switched, so the October Students of the Month were identified as November Students of the Month. In the interest of clarity and fairness, we've decided to run the photographs of both groups of students — this time the captions are on the right photos (we hope!) We regret and apologize for any inconvenience this may have caused.

B OF A AND MARINES TEAM UP IN TOYS FOR TOTS

Bank of America will team up with the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve to support the annual Toys for Tots campaign. As an official sponsor of the Marine Corps' 41st annual program, the bank will open its 850 branches as collection sites for toys, ensuring that thousands of needy youngsters will not be disappointed on Christmas morning.

Toys, which must be new and not gift-wrapped, may be donated at any Bank of America branch. Just before Christmas 23 USMC Reserve units in the state will make the final pick-up.

"Bank of America is proud to participate in this outstanding program which brings joy to millions of needy children," said Joan Salinas, manager of the Pacific Grove branch. "We hope to encourage large numbers of people to join in the spirit of giving, and have provided convenient drop-off sites for their toy contributions."

For men only!

IT'S RESOLUTION time again! It's time to get rid of those crazy, obnoxious habits of ours that we've had all year and think about making ourselves more perfect for 1989.

I know what you're thinking. Every year it's the same old resolutions and nothing ever gets accomplished. Sure you start out great with the promise that you'll never light another cigarette, but by the second day your resolution has gone up in smoke.

Why am I writing this? Maybe you'll read it now and then and put that cigarette down for a few minutes. This article is not written to make you feel guilty. Instead, it's to encourage you to feel better about yourself and to start the new year better than last year.

Let's begin with smoking. Stop hanging around your best friends who smoke. In fact, drop your Camel and Winston friends completely. They're compulsive smokers. Why should you be one? Go out and make new smokeless friends. If you're married to a chain smoker, threaten to leave her. She'll quit cold turkey.

Give up profanity. I realize it comes in handy when you've just lost your job. It happens to the best of us. And I realize that when you slam your finger in the car door that it's painful. But that doesn't mean you have to get carried away and shout out profanities. Learn to have more self-control.

For example, if your wife accidentally, remember, not intentionally, but ACCIDENTALLY runs over your foot with the car when she's backing the car out of the driveway, don't fly off the handle. Instead, nicely hint around that she's just run over your foot and that it upsets you a little. Suggest that she rush you to the nearest hospital before it has to be amputated. Remember, don't be rude. She IS your wife!

Get serious about that diet you've been on for the past eight years. A pound a year just doesn't make sense, especially when you've gained it and not lost it. I know that food is a necessity but try to think like a rabbit for a change and eat lettuce and carrots. Do you ever see fat rabbits running around? If you get a sweet craving, feel free to wash your mouth out with soap. This will destroy your taste buds for the next two weeks. May I suggest Dial-Around-the-Clock soap? More people prefer that.

Spend more time with the family (especially in the kitchen). Help your wife cook. Clear the table and wash those dishes. Tuck those kids in at night. Empty the trash, vacuum the whole house, clean the bathrooms, wash the windows, and work on the Yugo that's been sitting in the driveway for five months because you haven't had time to install a new starter. And while you're outside, trim those trees. Remember, a family that works together, stays together!

Learn to be optimistic. I know it's difficult in this day and age. The news is depressing, you've filed for bankruptcy, the in-laws are visiting for a few months from the East Coast and threaten to stay longer if you don't show them all of California from top to bottom.

I understand your bitter feelings. Next time invest more wisely on your choice of animal. Hamsters are more popular with most people's budget. Refrain from reading the obituary column. (You're not in there!)

Well, there you have it! Let's make 1989 a great year!

Surrogate grandmother

Q. WE are looking for a "grandmother" for our infant and 6-year-old. Due to distance and indifference we feel our children are missing an important connection in their lives by not having grandparents. We want grandparents who love children and wish to become part of a family. Relationships take time to grow but we are willing to try to incorporate this "grandmother" into our lives. We want to find someone who still is interested in life and wants to share herself through talking and teaching from her wealth of life knowledge but finds herself alone without a family.

We are not rich but are willing to pay for time spent baby sitting. References would be a must with so many disturbed people in every community.

A. I edited the above letter because of space requirements. Probably the best bet in this situation would be the Alliance on Aging Senior Employment Services Monterey Office at 280 Dickman (646-4636) and then the Carmel Foundation at Lincoln and Eighth Ave. (624-1588). At the foundation it may only result in a notice on their bulletin board since this type of referral does not seem too popular with their members. My final referral would be to Mothers-In-Deed, 3855 Via Nona Marie in Carmel (625-0411). There are fees and I'm not sure the services offered would meet your needs. Probably your best chance to establish a satisfactory relationship such as you describe would be through church or social groups with which you are familiar.

Q. I have been told that our Medi-Gap premium will increase by an unknown amount in 1989, Part B Medicare premium will increase $4 each for the Catastrophic Health Act plus its usual annual increase and then we get socked with $1,600 Income Tax surcharge. I expect our total health insurance premiums to be more than $4,000 in 1989 and close to $5,000 in 1990. All of this without addressing a very major concern of the elderly, nursing home care. Where will this all end.

SM
Carmel Valley

A. A recent item in the Wall Street Journal said that insurance carriers foresee an estimated 21 1/2 percent increase in medical-benefit costs in 1989; and figure that almost 33 percent of that increase is due to medical inflation. Medical inflation is the anticipated increases in the prices of services covered by typical plans. A half dozen laws were introduced in the final days of the 100th Congress to change the Catastrophic Act but they of course all died with adjournment and must be reintroduced when the 101st Congress convenes. My suggestion for any desired legislation is to write, call, arm twist or whatever it takes to lubricate the squeaky wheel.

CARMELITES WITNESS REAL SHIP-WRECK

Last Sunday all roads led to the scene of the shipwreck, just off the Del Monte Properties Company land, four miles south of Carmel. Thousands of people witnessed the breaking up of the cargo—a million feet of pine lumber—practically all of which has now been washed ashore.

The wreck of the three-masted steam schooner Flavel, from Everett, Wash., to San Pedro, Calif., occurred at two o'clock Friday morning last. The crew of twenty-four and Captain H. Johnson and a stowaway were rescued by the tug Normandin of Monterey.

CITY TO FOLLOW VOLLMER'S IDEAS
Mayor Herbert Heron is pledged to carry out suggestions made by August Vollmer, outstanding police expert, regarding Carmel's police force—at least to the extent of hiring a professionally trained officer, establishing a night desk, and installing a radio.

Cost of this was placed by Heron at $135 per month for the officer to bring the force to five officers, and an $800 one-way radio.

PROBLEM OF PALOMA CREEK SCHOOL STUDENTS DISCUSSED

The problem of getting eight children who live in the Paloma Creek area of Carmel Valley to school was discussed again at the last meeting of the Carmel Unified School District's Board. Two of the families who resided in the area have moved since the board voted not to provide transportation to their homes, eight miles beyond the last established stop at the Hastings Natural History Reservation. This decision was reached on October 27, and the children have not attended school since then.

SHALL NEW POST OFFICE BE DUBBED CARMEL?

A dispute over the name of a new post office has spawned an unexpected alliance of Carmel merchants and councilmen. The "strange bedfellows" apparently convinced a visiting postal operations manager to recommend clipping "Carmel" from the name proposed for the new office at the mouth of the Valley.

The building will probably be called simply, "United States Post Office."

J. Walter Lautenberger Jr., a postal operations manager from San Bruno, tried to convince an overflow City Hall audience of 150 Monday night that the only issue was the actual name to be placed on the outside of the new post office. Carmel addresses and postmarks would not change for those living in the unincorporated areas.

But an aroused audience wouldn't buy it. Banding together like longtime friends, were about 20 Carmel merchants and four members of the Carmel City Council. Businessmen claimed that spreading the name "Carmel" could decrease their sales volume. Councilmen objected to misuse and commercialization of the city's name.

CITY PANEL SPLIT ON SCENIC ROAD PLAN

The Carmel Beach Rehabilitation Task Force agrees that the city should construct a walkway along Scenic Road.

However, the consensus ends there as the committee is divided over traffic restrictions that would make a walkway feasible between Eighth and Santa Lucia avenues.

The committee originally was scheduled on Dec. 15 to discuss the long-delayed beach walkway plan and traffic restrictions along Scenic Road. But after a lengthy status report on the beach bank rehabilitation project, the committee adjourned with little discussion of the other two items.

Village Corner to file lawsuit against city denial

ROBERT CARLISLE, owner of the Village Corner restaurant, said he would be filing a lawsuit against the city because of the Carmel City Council's denial of a solarium for the patio of his restaurant.

The planning commission found that covering the patio would increase the use of the restaurant and would require more parking and not meet other new code requirements.

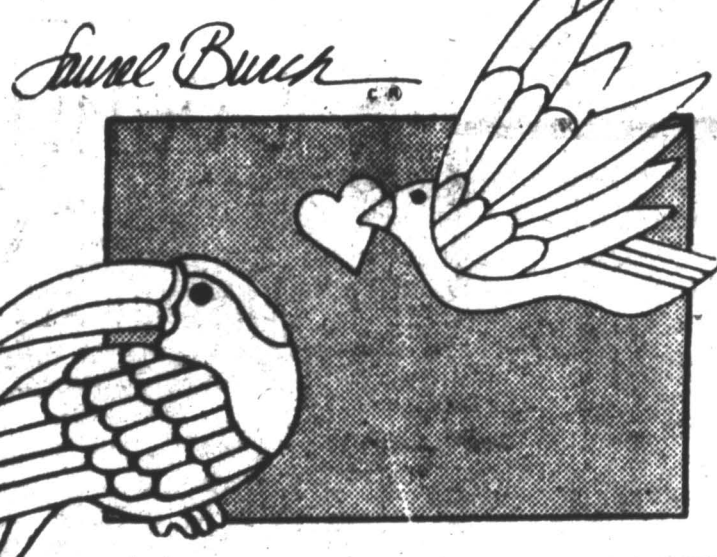

Carlisle on Dec. 6 appealed the decision to the city council. The council, in a decision that reversed a finding by the previous council, upheld the planning commission's decision.

Carlisle cited the inconsistency in the city's decisions as one of the reasons for pursuing the lawsuit. After the suit is filed, Carlisle's attorney Larry Lichtenegger of Monterey has 30 days to prepare a brief outlining Carlisle's case.

Sharing joy

STUDENTS AT Carmel High School collected thousands of canned goods and hundreds of toys in their annual holiday drive, all part of the seniors' Project Community class. Toys, which were collected for the first time this year, were distributed to the Family Resource Center, YMCA, and the Carmel Police Department. Thanks to the efforts of the students, a little Christmas joy was shared with the less fortunate families on the peninsula.

Girls, 10-11 Years
Michaela Hill, Carmel; Charlene Scott, Seaside; Preshice Carter, Monterey.

Girls, 12-13 Years
Buffy Slagle, Monterey; Veronica Piercy, Carmel; Kaye Coleman, Pacific Grove.

Trophies were awarded in each of the three age categories: 8-9; 10-11; 12-13. The six winners will now advance to the district finals at Palo Alto Elks Lodge in Palo Alto on Dec. 30, where they will compete with other winners within the district. Expenses incurred by participants and family will be defrayed by the Monterey Elks Lodge 1285.

The Elks Hoop Shoot is in its 17th year of national competition. More than three million boys and girls are expected to participate in the contest.

TREE OF LIFE... A BELOVED TRADITION CONTINUES
Almost 3,000 lights now shine on the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula Tree of Life from atop the Monterey Sheraton Hotel. "Every day the tree shines brighter," said Robert Brower, chairman of the board of directors. Gifts have exceeded $43,000 to date.

A gift of $15 or more to Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula dedicates a light. Some of the lights are in memory of individuals who are no longer living, but many buy lights for someone special in their daily lives, such as a child, a friend, or a loved one. A light on the Tree of Life makes a special gift and donations in memory or honor of loved ones will be accepted throughout the holiday season.

An acknowledgement card will be sent to announce each light dedicated. Names are entered in the Tree of Life Memory Book, which is located in the lobby of the Sheraton Hotel.

Donation envelopes are available at local police departments, from event sponsors, or by calling the Hospice Development Office at 372-6565.

Nash-Rogers wedding

THE RECENT wedding of Anne Lynne Nash and Russell Clay Rogers brought together many Carmel and Pacific Grove friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Nash is the granddaughter of Harriette and Cedric Rowntree, longtime Carmel residents. Her great-grandmother is the author and naturalist for whom the Rowntree Arboretum in Mission Trail Park is named. Her great-grandfather is former Carmel City Councilman Bernard Rowntree. Nash graduated from Carmel High School and Monterey Peninsula College, after which she became a seasonal firefighter for the California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection. Her parents, Sumner and Patricia Nash, reside in Coquille, Ore. Rogers graduated from Pacific Grove High School, attended MPC, and was a volunteer firefighter for the PG Fire Department until he entered CDF, where he is now a captain. His parents, the Farris Rogers, now live in Los Gatos, but were well-known PG residents active in business and community circles. The wedding service was held at Cypress Community Church of Monterey, followed by a reception at Rancho Canada. The couple resides in Redding.

TAKE MY WORD FOR IT

By D. Patrick Gallagher

The year end

WE HAVE survived 1988. Adsum ergo sum, with apologies to Descartes and Brother Adrian, my Latin teacher. We have survived national and international disasters, personal tragedies, and the dog days of an inane presidential election. This column has also survived the year, a fact for which I am most appreciative.

The term dog days (from the Latin cuniculares dies) comes to us from the Romans, because they believed the six or eight hottest days of the summer were caused by the Dog Star, Sirius' rising with the sun and adding its heat to the day. That heat created a listless feeling in people. This year it was caused by two lesser stars, named Mike and George.

Dogs and other animals figure prominently in our lives. In February, a woman attempted to sneak her dog onto a commercial airliner by hiding him in her coat. When asked how he had discovered the subterfuge, the security guard replied, "Her bosom barked."

It has been a year of solecisms, mine as well as others. We have seen pouring for poring, personal for personnel, illusions for allusions, and dawned for donned.

There was a newspaper article in which the writer was "...pouring over election statistics...." Over what he was pouring them, he does not say. Another author informed us that husbands were no longer able to make their wives to the line, much to their relief, I suppose. That may be something similar to lifting that bail or deciding which epithet to put on a headstone, which I suppose, could be called a grave error.

Epitaphs are sometimes unintentionally humorous, particularly when a quotation for the deceased is added following the details of death, as is one found in a Boston cemetery which reads,

Here lies Captain Aron Smith accidentally shot by his orderly
June 2nd, 1779

"Well done, good and faithful servant"

Jack Smith has discovered some solecisms in his own paper. A Los Angeles Times reporter admitted to "...taking a lot of flack on the road..." for which he deservedly took some flak. Another story in August talked of California's three-tired system of higher education, which Smith observed was "tired indeed."

A reader submitted a sample of poor syntax from the evening television news where it was reported a man was "...sentenced to die in the gas chamber for a second time today." An example of cruel and unusual punishment. Under the same circumstances one hears Franklin Roosevelt is the only man to be elected president four times in a single lifetime.

Dan Rather told us "CBS will have an 11:30 report on the election results later this evening," but failed to tell us at what time later this evening the 11:30 report would be shown. Secretary of State George Shultz talked of a balance of global stability, balances of instability being notoriously hard to maintain.

Opponents on the Hatton Canyon Freeway engaged this year in negotiations where both sides were far apart. Would they have fared better, if only one side were far apart? An engineering firm for the proposed freeway amused us with a report containing alternate lane changes, right of way takings and depressing the freeway, an effect the report had on many people. Not to be outdone Caltrans responded with elevated roads that overpass intersections. I suppose freeways will cease to overpass, when conversations no longer ongo.

Not to be outdone by the state, the U.S. Postal Service gave us Please notify your correspondence as an official stamp on returned letters and George Bush promised us a flexible freeze. When he was criticized for the oxymoron, George responded forthrightly, "So's your old man."

Our sports pundits provided our annual share of good speed, successfully advance and physical injuries. We procured first downs, reached the 50-yard line at mid-field, and were for all intensive purposes eliminated from the playoffs. Corporations improved interpersonal relationships, probed exogenous variables for adverse social consequences, and insured that tasks were completed in their totality.

A Herald editorial gave us a certifiedly conservative president, but also brought us some intentional humor with sociology's bafflegab, as in distributionally conservative notions and inequalities in the sex gender system. The best intentional effort at foolishness went to the contest winner in the worst opening for a mystery story, who wrote, "With the radio squawking that a 317 was in progress at 37th and 101st, Murphy knocked car 26 into third and raced up 12th at 50, little reckoning as he thumbed his .38, that this would be the day his number came up."

On the positive side we were treated to some surprisingly lucid and occasionally inspiring utterances from the likes of George Will, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, Barry Goldwater and Congressman Lee Hamilton. Perhaps, as Will told us earlier this year, 1989 will bring an end to "...the plague of counterfeit rhetoric that flourishes when passions are synthetic." Perhaps.

Need remains for foster care

The holidays come and go. The need for foster care homes remains. The children in the Monterey County Department of Social Services Foster Care appreciate community support.

The department is particularly in need of people who can share their homes with minority children and sibling groups.

Remember that it takes time to be licensed as a foster care home. For complete details, call 899-8001.

OBITUARIES

William A. Farner

William A. Farner, a former Carmel resident, died Nov. 28 in a Glendale convalescent home. He was 85.

Born in Glendale in 1903, he lived in Carmel for 35 years and was active in real estate in the area. He taught real estate law at Monterey Peninsula College.

He received a law degree from the University of Southern California and held a legal position with the Metropolitan Water District in Los Angeles. He also served in the U.S. Navy, where he achieved the rank of lieutenant, during World War II.

Survivors include a sister, Edna Grubb of Glendale; and a stepson, John Getchell of Novato.

Harriett J. Walker

Memorial services took place Dec. 10 at First Presbyterian Church of Monterey, for Harriett Josephine Walker, a longtime resident of Carmel Valley, who died Dec. 3 at the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 74.

Born March 13, 1914 in Tacoma, Wash., she graduated from Stadium High School and Tacoma Business College in Tacoma.

She lived in Monterey County for 53 years and Carmel Valley for 45 years. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey and sang in the church choir.

She had worked as a bookkeeper for Abinante Music Store in Monterey and Rancho Tularcitos and as office manager for John Greenwald's Monterey Mortgage Co. before retiring in 1983.

Survivors include her husband of 53 years, Charles; a son, David of Visalia; a daughter, Carol L. DeLeon of San Diego, six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Private cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, under the direction of the Paul Mortuary.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the First Presbyterian Church of Monterey Choir Fund or to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Walter Wissemann

Funeral services took place Dec. 8 at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, for Walter Wissemann of Pebble Beach, who died Dec. 6 in Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. He was 91.

Born May 22, 1897 in Sacramento, he lived in Pebble Beach for 24 years. He was a hops rancher in Sacramento until his retirement in 1964.

He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He was a member of St. Paul's German Lutheran Church in Sacramento.

Survivors include his wife, Agnes; and a nephew.

Entombment took place in East Lawn Memorial Park in Sacramento.

The family suggests memorial contributions to Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula.

Nathan Meistle

Funeral services, under the direction of the Mission Mortuary, took place for Nathan Meistle, a furrier, who died Dec. 6 at his Carmel home. He was 82.

Born April 7, 1906 in New York City, he lived in Carmel for 15 years and was a furrier for more than 60 years.

Survivors include his wife, Mollie; two daughters, Deena Joyce Levine of Monterey and Rita Jacobs of New York City; a brother, Joseph, and a sister, Rebecca Yellin, both of New York City; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Vern J. Lange

Memorial services took place Dec. 9 at the First United Methodist Church of Pacific Grove, for Vern J. Lange, assistant manager of Hayward Lumber, who died Dec. 5 at his home in Pacific Grove. He was 55.

Born March 21, 1933 in South Dakota, he moved to Pacific Grove in 1956 from Webster, S.D. He was an assistant manager at the lumber company's Pacific Grove store, specializing in hardware sales and customer relations. Prior to joining Hayward Lumber, he was employed by Work Mill in Pacific Grove.

He served in the U.S. Army in the mid-1950s.

He is survived by his wife, Donna.

Interment took place at El Carmelo Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital Oncology Department or the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Marjorie M. Hoge

Memorial services took place Dec. 9 at the Paul Mortuary Chapel, for Marjorie M. Hoge, who died Dec. 5 at her Carmel Valley home. She was 87.

Born Nov. 30, 1901 in Whitensville, Mass., she lived in Carmel Valley for 23 years, moving to the area from Cleveland. She was a homemaker, worked in ceramics and was well-known for her pottery.

She was a member of the Carmel Foundation.

Survivors include her husband, Robert; a son, Renon of Cleveland; two daughters, Margo Gathers of West Lafayette, Ind., and Coliver Parker of Rockdale, Texas; a sister, Marion Nickerson of Chatham, Mass., eight grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Lung Association, 148 Central Ave., Salinas 93901.

Katherine Hillyard

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by the scattering of ashes at sea, for Katherine Abbott Hillyard of Carmel, who died Dec. 10 at Monterey Convalescent Hospital. She was 81.

Born Nov. 9, 1907 in Denver, she came to the peninsula 25 years ago from San Francisco.

She was home economics editor for Sunset magazine for seven years, followed by a period of freelance writing.

Survivors include her son, Steven of San Francisco, and one grandson.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

At her request, no services took place.

Carmel nine years ago from Fresno where she had lived for 20 years. She worked as a salesclerk at Brown's Brown in Carmel for five years.

She was a member of St. Anthony's Church in Fresno.

Survivors include three daughters, Leslie Lemmon and Carrie Hudgins, both of San Diego, and Julie Lynes of Sunnyvale; a sister, Claire MacFadyen of Fremont; her parents, Walter and Helen Warner of Stockton; and four grandsons.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Carol Warner Mott

Funeral services took place Dec. 11 at the Carmel Mission, followed by burial in San Carlos Cemetery, for Carol Warner Mott of Carmel, who died Dec. 9 at Carmel Convalescent Hospital. She was 56.

Born Nov. 8, 1932 in California, she moved to

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Scientists probing the role of heredity in human longevity are trying to zero in on which genes might influence lifespan. At Wayne State University in Detroit, research is focusing on fruit flies — ideal subjects because they have few genes and their short lifespan allows study of many generations in a relatively short time. So far the research has produced fruit fly strains with greatly enhanced lifespans.

Operation ABLE (Ability Based on Experience) is a nationwide network of organizations that promotes employment of older workers and seek to overcome age discrimination. The network gets more than 1,000 inquiries a day from job-seekers and from employers. In Chicago, where the network began in 1977, an annual job fair for workers 50 or older draws about 3,000 people.

Remember When? December 24, 1943 — The Government revealed that the world's largest war production plant was ready to turn out engines for Air Force bombers. The plant, covering 500 acres on Chicago's South Side, required 25,000 workers.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Pride goeth before the fall

Carmel Pine Cone
Oct. 23, 1980

With admiration we have watched the National Football League's Walter "Sweetness" Payton plow through an obstacle course of fearsome guards, mammoth tackles, deadly linebackers and agile safeties as he scores several touchdowns a game.

When reporters interview him after a game, he does not say like Muhammad Ali did until recently, "I'm the greatest" nor "I did it all by myself." He tells the truth. He stresses the fact that his success was due to the superb help and team work of his fellow players.

If he wants to gain 200 yards in next week's game, he had better admit he needs help and will go on needing it.

When we begin to think that every success is our own doing, then we are in deep trouble. We must realize and admit that God has given us both the ability and the motivation to develop that ability. Yet we go on being tempted by the Almighty God syndrome, "I did it on my own."

This complex can afflict a dog catcher or a computer designer, a poor potato farmer or a prelate or potentate.

In Godfather II, Michael Corleone, through pride and ruthless ambition, became "King of the Mountain," but he sat there alone. He murdered his brother-in-law and most of his enemies. He was deserted by his wife, his children and his family. He was unloved, friendless and unable to trust anyone. Each one of us in his own way can become a Godfather.

Ask God the Father to knock out your Godfatherly pride before it knocks you out.

CRITIC AT LARGE

By Mac McDonald

The Christmas rush

OK, YOU'VE only got two more shopping days left before Christmas, so here are a few suggestions for stocking-stuffers from your friendly neighborhood critic at large:

- Tickets to the Robert Cray Band/John Hiatt show Jan. 23 at the Warfield in San Francisco. OK, so they're $20 bucks apiece, but this show is going to be one of the best of 1989, take my word for it.

- Lovers and Strangers' new four-song cassette tape, including favorites (that is if you follow the band at all), Lovers and Strangers, Please Don't Say Goodbye, Government-Government, and The American Way. It's only $4.95 and going fast at Do-Re-Mi at The Barnyard and Carmel Plaza. And if you're lucky, you can even buy a copy from the band's lead guitarist, Steve Sippel, who works at Do-Re-Mi at The Barnyard. The recording's amazingly clean, the playing's bright and tight, and the songs are repeated on side two. What more could you ask for? If you want to see them live, try Doc Ricketts on Cannery Row tonight and Saturday, The Club on Dec. 29 — Dollar Night — with Magazine and Early Warning.

- A videocassette copy of Talking Heads' Stop Making Sense, for my money the best rock concert movie ever made. Directed by Jonathan Demme (Married to the Mob, Something Wild), it features David Byrne and the band at its best. The opening sequence, with Byrne playing Psycho Killer on acoustic guitar and portable tape player, and Byrne in his Big Suit, have become classics. The cassette tape's good too, but you've got to see this one to believe it.

- A subscription to Utne Reader, a wonderful monthly magazine that takes the best and most intriguing articles from a variety of magazines and newspapers (from Harper's, Mother Jones, and Spy, to The New Republic.) and puts them all into a lively and readable format. Based in Minnesota, it runs about $18 a year.

- Even more cassettes: Edie Brickell and the New Bohemians' Shooting Rubber Bands... and Sugarcubes' Life's Too Good, talk about an odd couple, these two new releases feature female lead singers on opposite sides of the spectrum, one wispy-dreamy with hints of Rickie Lee Jones, the other raw and impassioned with shades of Janis. Impressive debuts both.

- A movie poster from the Carmel Movie Poster Shop, Seventh and Dolores, next to the Carmel Village Theatre. Everything's 30 percent off for now, so pick up a Bronco Billy or a 2001: A Space Odyssey for your favorite movie buff. Or get 'em an original unscratched scratch-and-sniff card from John Waters' notorious Polyester, featuring Devine and Tab Hunter. And for you Monterey Film Festival fans (are there any left out there?) there's always a "Pippi's Coming to Town" button. OK, so they were for those lamented Pippi Longstocking movies, but who can tell?

- Separated at Birth, brought to you by those wonderfully wacky folks from Spy magazine, this wonderfully wacky book theorizes how some famous people obviously got separated at birth, and with pictures to prove it, such as Don Knotts and Mick Jagger and George Shultz and the Cowardly Lion from the Wizard of Oz. Also, any book by humorist Dave Barry, who has got to be the funniest writer around. His book about raising babies is a howl.

Orchestra trains young musicians

The Youth and Honors Orchestras of Monterey County are now offering a training program for beginning and intermediate student instrumentalists who are interested in becoming members of the orchestras. The training program is designed to prepare students to enter the orchestras when they reach intermediate skills. Training is available at this time for viola, oboe, bassoon, French horn, string bass and trombone.

There will be no charge for this training to any student who demonstrates the motivation to progress and who resides in Monterey County. If a student is accepted into the Youth or Honors Orchestra, and wishes to continue with the trainer, lesson fees will then be charged to the student.

For further information or to schedule an audition, contact Michelle Noseworthy at 625-1955.

Seniors receive free health checks

Free health check-ups for older adults are offered by the SCANS (Senior Citizen and Nursing Services) program of the Monterey County Health Department. Persons over age 55 are eligible.

Appointments are required for the screenings, which are offered in Carmel at the Presbyterian Church; in Pacific Grove at the community center and in New Monterey at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center.

To schedule an appointment, call 899-8100.

Harp master class veterans perform several concerts

HIDDEN VALLEY presents the Susann McDonald Harp Recital Series Wednesday through Friday, Dec. 28, 29, and 30.

Beverly Wesner-Hoehn of Glendora performs on Wednesday, Dec. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in Hidden Valley Theatre, Carmel Valley Road at Ford Road. Admission is free.

Gillian Benet of Belvedere and Jung Kwak of Seoul, Korea, give solo performances on Thursday, Dec. 22 in a 7:30 p.m. recital in the sanctuary of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Dolores and Ninth Avenue in Carmel. Admission is free.

The soloists join other McDonald Master Class harpists for a final recital on Friday, Dec. 30 in Hidden Valley Theatre. Other players include Japanese harpist Yuko Hinokawa of the Singapore Symphony Orchestra and Ann Yeung of Fresno, a national finalist in the American String Teachers Association Harp Competition. Friday recital tickets are $8, available at the door.

Soloist Wesner-Hoehn presents works by Britten, Faure, Houdy, and Salzedo. She presented the same program earlier this fall at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana as part of her Ph.D. studies with McDonald. Wesner-Hoehn's credits include performances at the World Harp Congress in Israel, Dorothy Chandler Pavilion in Los Angeles and Walt Disney World's Epcot Center in Orlando, Florida.

Benet's recital includes Benjamin Britten's "Suite for Harp, Opus 33" and pieces by Faure, Parish-Alvars, and Posse. Benet is a graduate student at Juilliard, having recently been a Tanglewood fellow and a graduate of the Ecole Normal de Musique in Paris. She performed in Carnegie Hall this month and has also been a soloist with the Harvard-Radcliffe Orchestra at the American Embassy in Moscow.

Jung Kwak, a high school sophomore studying with McDonald in Bloomington, returns to Korea this spring for her second GILLIAN BENET can be heard in concert Thursday, Dec. 29. Her performance is part of the Susann McDonald Harp Recital Series, and will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of All Saints' Church, Dolores and Ninth, Carmel. Admission is free.

JAZZ TIDES

By John Detro

The talent roster

MONTEREY BAY Club Booker Teri Waros already has begun building the talent roster for some weeks down the road. Two nights seem well worth discussion at this early date because they indicate the level of thought over there right now.

The venue had Mose Allison and Dave Frishberg just recently. It's clear today that Teri shan't coast on the good will and energy generated by those back-to-back hits.

In early February (2/7-8), the Bay Club will offer brilliant San Francisco vocalist Kitty Margolis. The first evening will be a duo gig with superb pianist Dick Hindman, now a resident of Pacific Grove. Then she'll work with a trio (TBA).

Kitty and Teri have been chatting for a couple of months about Miss Margolis coming down here. From the jump, Kitty wanted Dick Hindman on the job. Dick agreed as this column was being written.

By me, Kitty's one-nighter at Kuumbwa Jazz Center last summer must be called the finest regional sets by a female jazz vocalist during 1988. Reedman John Cortes had praised her without reservation—and Cortes wasn't wrong.

One can hear in Margolis ballads the hip, pretty, fog-edged tones of the young Anita O'Day. And yet Kitty's utter freshness, time sense and uptempo flights go beyond any possible influences. She's a serious student of modern drumming and tackles composers like Wayne Shorter along with inspired standards.

And she's quite witty and full aware of everything that's happening in the room while she's on. At Kuumbwa a telephone's ring busted up an intro; she wrapped the interruption in a funny line without missing a beat.

Kitty: "When I'm at work, I feel as though I'm giving a party." Recommendation: mark those dates with big red circles.

Teri says too that pianist Bobby Phillips signed on for all the Sunday nights of January. "Bob in that slot has really taken off the last couple of months. His friends show up—players such as Buddy Jones, Roland Allen, Bryan McConnell—and some delightful jams occur. We're really happy with him."

When he was here, Dave Frishberg recommended the touring New York trumpeter Rebecca Franks. Rebecca will work the Bay Club during January's second week. More on this gig later.

On New Year's Eve, tenorman Terry Hanck and R&B buddies will be there. The $10 door charge covers party favors, hats, midnight champagne toast, free taco bar after midnight. The Designated Driver Plan will apply—free sodas or coffees for folks who identify themselves as the non-drinking drivers in particular groups.

Upstairs at Ferrante's Restaurant, Dick Drew will play solo jazz piano from 9 p.m. till 1 a.m. Don Eshoff Orchestra in the Ballroom.

Other New Year's Eve doings:

—Monterey Plaza Hotel on Cannery Row will have outstanding jazz guitarist Jeff Linsky in Delfino Lounge and Dave Clay Trio at the Lobby Lounge. All music starts at nine o'clock.

—Hidden Valley's bringing in Ali Ryerson (excellent jazz flute) plus the Buddy Jones Trio. The $25-per-person cost includes an extensive buffet. Call 659-3115.

—Time Machine (formerly the Bow Williams Band) will be at Highlands Inn. Featuring vocalist Linda Lukenas. Info: 624-3801.

—Trumpeter Eddie Gale just finished a tour with Sun Ra's Cosmic Arkestra. This fine player will front a band at the Cameleon Cafe in Santa Cruz. It's 429-1450; 9:30 kick.

—Yoshi's in Oakland offers the Benny Golson Quartet with Bobby Hutcherson.

—San Francisco's Great American Music Hall: Queen Ida and her Bon Temps Zydeco Band plus Andy Narell Quartet.

—Rare gathering of young masters at Ken Schubert's Gallery 552 in Oakland. George Cables, Arthur Blythe, Famoudou Don Moye, Steve Turre, Jeff Carney. Info: (415) 653-0822.

—Maybeck Recital Hall in Berkeley will spotlight guitarist Bruce Forman with the Dick Whittington Trio. Food, wine. Contact: (415) 848-3228.

—And if you stay home, I'll be sitting in for Chuck Murphy from 5-8 p.m. at KRML Jazz Radio. Then it's the witty Bill Greenwell till midnight. Ring up with requests.

So then. May the next dozen months be creative and joyous ones for you.

HERB CAEN calls the late Don Sherwood "the world's greatest disc jockey." He does so in noting that RISEING STAR—Jazz vocalist Kitty Margolis will play the Sheraton's Monterey Bay Club in near future. See Jazz Tides for details.

writer Laurie Harper has finished her book about Don and it'll be brought out next autumn by Prima Publishing. A little story:

Back about three centuries ago, when I still was attending an Oakland high school, great jazz deejay Don Barksdale of the old KROW Radio right downtown got me a modest slot to play records by Ella and George Shearing and Diz and Billie on Saturday mornings. I held no FCC ticket so the show was engineered by a man in the booth.

Well, KROW had quite a staff in those days—Barksdale, exec Russ Coughlin, Bruce Sedley (amazing collection of voices), Walt Jamond (the man knew his trad jazz), others. Phyllis Diller wrote ad copy and cackled wildly through the halls. Rod McKuen and I were the weekend kids.

Then KROW hired Don Sherwood—his first job in San Francisco Bay Area radio. He was slated to go on at noon one Saturday. Everyone was standing about, waiting to check out the new guy. Sherwood hustled in at nine minutes before showtime. He spent eight minutes on the phone with his landlady—late rent the issue. With less than a minute to spare, he sat before the mike and told those assembled pros: "Here's how it's done."

Don threw the switch, hunched over, started talking off the top—and never looked back.

That's not all. Don could charm his way into anything. One day he mentioned to me: "I wanted to be a big band singer. I was up there, doing it, when I discovered that I couldn't sing."

IN CASE you missed the story, New York Film Critics Circle named Diane Venora best supporting actress of this year for the way she portrayed Chan Parker in Clint Eastwood's Bird bio. Lord knows she deserves the award—her characterization's deep, thorough, agonizingly sensitive, completely credible.

Odd. Conventional wisdom said Diane might get lost at various ballot times as judges celebrated the powerful work of Forest Whitaker in the title role. Since the Cannes Festival—where he won for best actor—Whitaker has been passed over by the Los Angeles Film Critics and National Board of Review. Looks like the Oscar voting will answer a large question: Can the industry call itself ready for a major film about interracial marriage and a troubled genius who was a black man?

Meanwhile, the real Chan Parker—last of Bird's wives—has contracted to host a radio series. She lives in Paris; shows will emanate (such a good old radio word) from jazz clubs there. Chan's package will be made available to public and commercial stations next month by the French production company called Ofreidia.

SAN JOSE Repertory Theater offers The 1940s Radio Hour through 1/8/89. The Walton Jones musical reviews tunes within the context of a radio variety show. Represented: Ellington, Mercer, Harold Arlen, Gershwin, Cole Porter, others.

Singer Holly Near's in the cast; her sister's the director. Pianist Steve Zavodnick fronts a six-piece onstage band—including very good trumpeter Mike Gurciullo. Reservations: 1-294-7572.

KITO GAMBLE was pianist for the award-winning Berkeley High Combo in Monterey Jazz Festival Student Competition 1988. Currently she's working selected dates with her mother—excellent vocalist Faye Carroll.

Established players will turn out for Spalding Pro-Am

TWENTY-THREE of the touring pros in this year's $250,000 Spalding, which swings into action Wednesday, Jan. 4 over three Monterey Peninsula golf courses, have combined to win 111 PGA tournaments during their careers.

The list begins with Johnny Miller who has 23 victories to his credit—and that does not include his British Open Championship nor his victory in the 1983 Spalding. It goes down to half a dozen players who have won just once.

Second to Miller in tour victories is veteran George Archer, who has 13 wins to his credit, including the Masters and the old Crosby. Dave Stockton has 11 in his collection, including two PGA Championships. Craig Stadler and J.C. Snead have each won eight times, with Stadler's titles including the Masters and the World Series of Golf.

With six wins is Bob Gilder. Gilder is fresh from a non-tour victory in the Kapalua International.

Danny Edwards and Roger Maltbie have each won five times, with Maltbie having captured a World Series of Golf title. George Burns and Doug Tewell each are four-time winners. Burns, a former Crosby Champion, is fresh from a victory in the 1988 Chrysler Team Championship which he just won with Wayne Levi as the tour year concluded in Florida.

"I'm equally proud of our non-tour field which includes several excellent golfers who have won Tour events in their careers," said Spalding Tournament Director Harold Firstman. "Peter Oosterhuis, who has won our tournament twice, Keith Fergus, Bob Lunn, Rod Curl, Ron Cerrudo and Jim Wiechers at one time or another all won Tour tournaments."

Others in the non-tour category include 1981 U.S. Amateur Champion Nathaniel Crosby and 1988 Northern and Southern California PGA Players of the Year Glen Stubblefield of Salinas and Shawn McEntee of La Quinta.

The 17th Annual Spalding will be contested Jan. 4-7 over the Carmel Valley Ranch, Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and Poppy Hills courses, with the final round Saturday at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, tournament headquarters.

Advance gallery tickets may be obtained by calling the Spalding office at 484-2151. Tournament proceeds go to the Monterey Kiwanis Club for use in their youth-oriented charity programs.

Katalina-Volkman will lead dance classes

Alexandra Katalina-Volkman, formerly a member of the Eglevsky Ballet Company, will lead the classes that were headed for 17 years by Lilli Selvig. Selvig, a veteran of the Royal Danish Ballet, retired from her Sunset Center post in mid-December.

"I want to carry on her schedule and tradition," explained Katalina-Volkman.

The new teacher is a native of New York City. She began her dance studies at age 5 and danced in The Nutcracker professionally at 9. She was a scholarship student at the School of American Ballet Theatre and the Third Wave Dance Studio.

Katalina-Volkman will lead the full complement of dance classes offered at Sunset Center, which is on Ninth Avenue at San Carlos Street in Carmel-by-the-Sea. The dance classes are conducted in Room 13, and typically contain eight to 20 students. There are classes for assorted ages and abilities.

"It's a good way to shape up and have fun, for people who enjoy the art of dance and keeping in tone," the instructor said.

The schedule of Sunset Center dance classes is as follows:

Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays
Ballet exercise, 9 to 10 a.m.

Tuesdays and Thursdays
Ballet, 8 to 9 a.m.; ballet exercise 10 to 11 a.m.; dance exercise, 6:30 to 7:15 p.m.; jazz, 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Fees range from $6 per drop-in class to $45 per month to attend three classes a week. Private instruction is also available. For additional information, call 624-7014.

Need for blood donations crucial this winter

Community Hospital Blood Center supplies are at a winter low, and donors are needed to keep the community safe.

"Because of an unavoidable cancellation of a major blood drive, we are about 120 units shorter than anticipated," said Blood Center Manager Margot Dunham. "Now donors drawn at the hospital Blood Center must try to make up the difference because patients depend on it."

There is no risk of infection associated with blood donations. All units of blood collected for transfusion are tested for the antibody associated with the AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) virus, and if any test positive they are discarded.

Since testing began in 1985 for the virus associated with AIDS and risk donors began cooperating with blood centers, the chance of AIDS being contracted through a blood transfusion is less than one in 100,000.

"Cases of disease which are now receiving much publicity all occurred before units of blood were tested for the antibody to the AIDS virus and before the comprehensive interviews now given to donors," Dunham said. "As we learn more about the risk donor and the high level of denial in which they are involved, we have become more able to design an interview which will detect the few remaining high-risk individuals who may attempt to donate."

The incidence of positives has been one in 17,500 donors from June of 1985 to the present at the Community Hospital Blood Center. The one positive donor was found in 1985 and was probably donating to get free testing, Dunham said.

"The fact remains that blood is still needed for transfusion and the healthy, risk-free donor is needed more than ever," she said. "We hope that the responsible, community-spirited donors of the Monterey Peninsula will respond to the local need for blood donations."

To schedule an appointment, call the Blood Center at 625-4814.

Virginia Watts of Carmel, who writes: "My husband (Gordon) and I have a favorite restaurant in downtown Monterey—the Acropole on Pacific Street. The prices are very reasonable, the service consistently good, the menu tempting. The food is attractive and tasty—the Greek dishes especially good (try the tender lamb shanks)—happy ambience, a bonus. Bon appetit—"

Virginia's card was one of two nominating the Acropole for "favorite local restaurant," which ought to please affable owner John Bikas, who's still got loyal clientele from his days at the Village Corner in C-by-the-Sea.

Gordon and Virginia are lucky winners of dinner for two at Pierre Coutou's La Provence restaurant in the American Tin Cannery plus the dazzling "Monterey by Night" cabaret show staged every Sunday evening (except for Christmas and New Year's Day) in the restaurant, complimentary with dinner. The brassy, high-kicking Parisian style show is produced for the third year by the outrageous DiFranco Dancers led by Dianne Lyle and Frank Quilantang and runs through Mardi Gras.

This prize includes the dinners and show, with wine, tax, and tip extra, and beaucoup thanks to Pierre and to all of you who sent in postcards and letters in this month's giveaway. You're the tops...

RESTAURANT BUSINESS is slow around Christmas and New Year's so now's a good time to revisit some of your old favorite joints and relax in an uncrowded atmosphere. That's just what Bay Lights did last week at the informal Sandbar and Grill on Wharf Number Two in Monterey's marina.

This place has long been favored by the theatrical crowd. Open nightly til "very late," with piano bar music from 7 p.m., it's the ideal spot for apres-show drinks and snacks, and also a fine lunch rendezvous. The restaurant sits below the wharf, down a flight of stairs, and actually seems to be floating in the water alongside bobbing yachts and pleasure craft.

The menu hadn't changed a bit although it must be a year since the last time we ate at the Sandbar. The food is tasty, well-prepared wharf cuisine, not gourmet or elegant and not expensive. We went for and enjoyed our old favorite fish and chips with white rock cod and English vinegar, while our dining companion raved about his Philadelphia cheese steak sandwich, which was soft, cheesy and liberal with the onion and green pepper. You want cheese steak, this is as good as it gets.

Actor Keith Decker first introduced us to the Sandbar and, wouldn't you know, the Acropole...

THE Golden Buddha restaurant in the Barnyard has been under new management for a year now and it was a pleasure to eat again in a place we've enjoyed for a decade. Henry and Jayne Geen, new owners, returned to the Monterey Peninsula after 20 years in the St. Louis area where they had the highly successful Hunan Wok.

This place towers over the Barnyard complex with brilliant lights and enormous statue of the Buddha. We decided on the house dinner ($15 a person brings everything from soup to fortune cookie with a glass of wine included), and settled on entrees of shrimp and pork, Hunan style, and dragon's nest, sitting wonderfully on a bed of crisp noodles and loaded with shrimp and vegetables.

The dinner started with flaming-hot appetizers of delicate won tons stuffed with crab and cream cheese, egg rolls and Szechuan beef on skewers, served with a small Hibachi ablaze with cheer. The presentation was outstanding. Next came a highly original soup with egg whites floating on top like a Chinese egg nog, and green onions, chicken, shrimp, peas and mushrooms. This divine tureenful is Henry's personal specialty.

We were very happy, and scarcely prepared, when the main courses arrived heaped high on generous platters. Here were

One-time child star draws a crowd to Carmel bookstore

By ANNE PAPINEAU

THE LINE snakes out of sight as the inquisitive and acquisitive gather to greet a screen legend who launched her career 57 years ago.

Shirley Temple Black takes her place at a table in Books, Inc. on Ocean Avenue, vital, cheerful and several minutes early. Her hair and eyes are a matching shade of brown and her spike heels mirror the bright red of her suit.

"I feel like Santa Claus today. I like red all the year 'round, frankly," exclaims the author of Child Star, the number three book on the New York Times bestseller list, and "the book for Christmas, a phenomenal best-seller," according to a representative from the publisher, McGraw-Hill.

It's something of a mob scene in the Carmel store. But the crowd defies pigeon-holing. There are young children leading their parents by the hand. There are people who appear to be much older than the author's 60 years. The unifying theme in this swell of humanity is the black and white image of an unsmiling, ringletted child, the cover photograph on the autobiography that is carried by the patient visitors to Books, Inc. this Saturday morning.

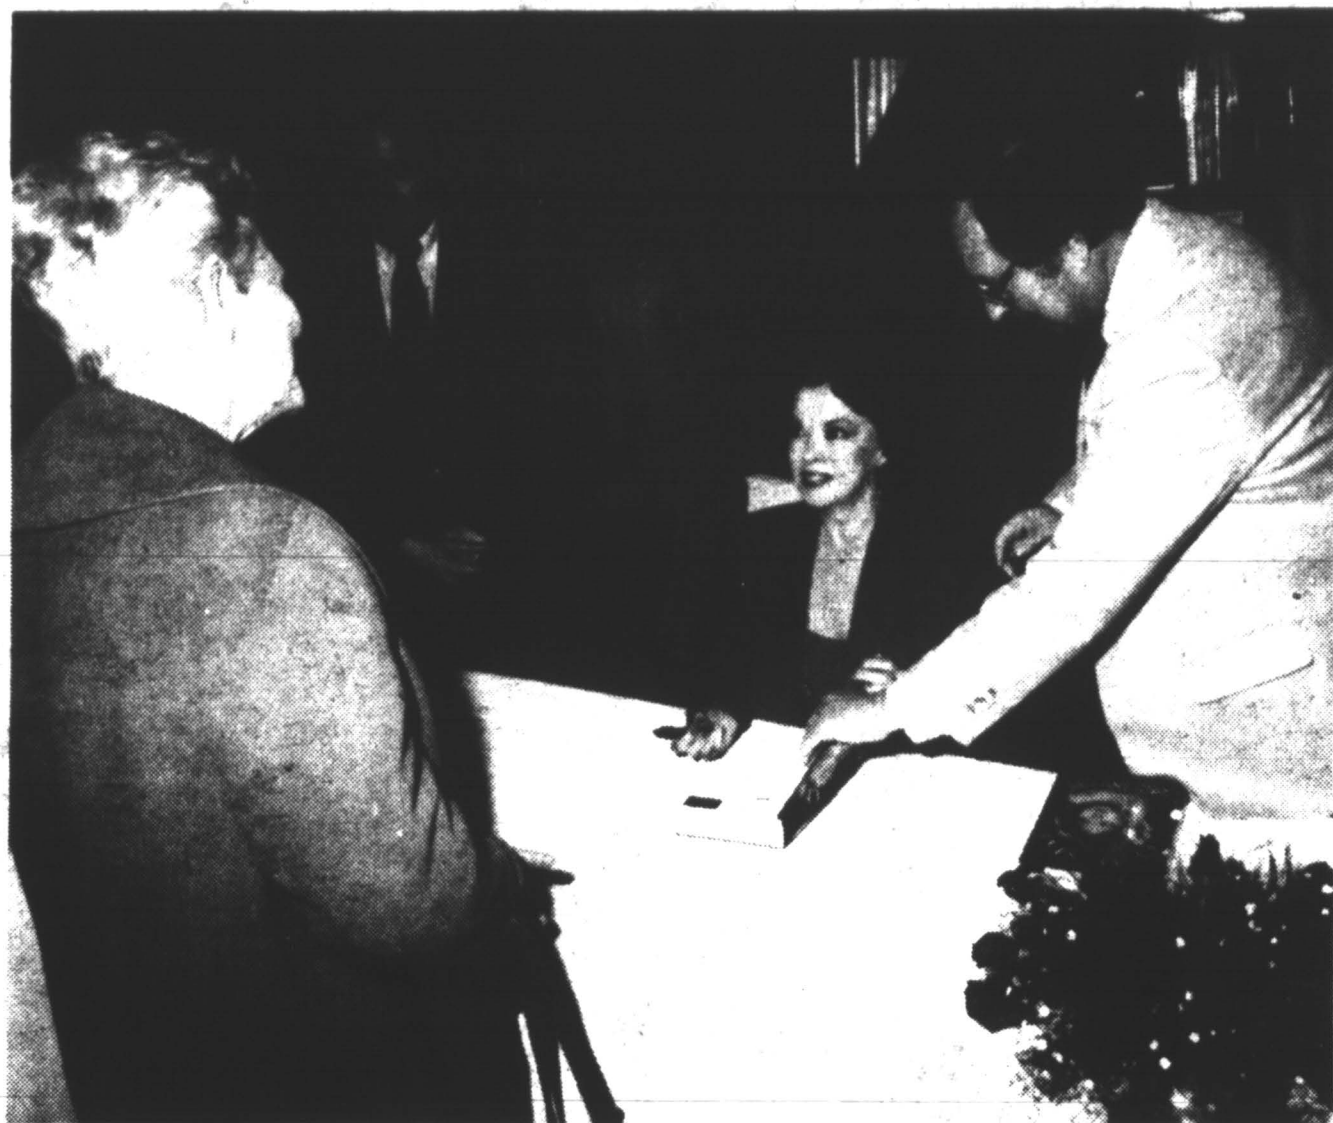

"Where are people parking today, that's what I want to know?" Black inquires. "In Pacific Grove?"

If Shirley Temple Black has anything better to do at the moment, she's not letting on. This dancing-eyed grandmother who celebrated her 38th wedding anniversary the previous day appears to be having a whale of a time. To each person she bestows a direct smile and a carefully penned autograph in Child Star. For many, she has questions.

"Are they going to add to the freeway in Carmel? I don't think I like the bypass idea," she notes to City Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo and her husband Barney.

A regular visitor to the peninsula, she married Charles A. Black in 1950 at his parent's vacation home off Aguajito Road in the hills above Monterey.

"We were married in the living room in front of the fireplace. It was a foggy day," she recalls.

HUNDREDS OF fans of assorted ages assembled in Carmel to meet Shirley Temple Black. The film actress-turned-stateswoman

Video monitors installed in the store echo her image. Skipping across the screens in glorious black and white is vintage Shirley, the child who saved her studio from bankruptcy and outdrew them all — Gable, Crawford, Garbo et al., in Hollywood's Golden Age.

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt said of her, "It is a splendid thing that for just 15 cents, an American can go to a movie and look at the smiling face of a baby and forget his troubles."

Black chronicles her career in a book that is unsparing in its revelations. The world's number one box office attraction was the object of death threats and kidnap attempts. The studio that she saved from financial disaster paid her far less than her actual worth. And the millions she did earn were squandered through mismanagement.

"For years Father had flagrantly disobeyed the Superior Court order," Black writes. "Commencing in 1942 he simply ceased depositing anything to my trust."

Yet hers is not a dark story. The brightness that she exhibited as a child memorizing dialogue and dance routines is coupled with unwavering level-headedness. Many child actors, their careers dissolved with the onset of puberty, never found their way as adults. But Black survived and thrived. Her first marriage at 17 ended in divorce, but she went on to enter a successful second marriage and cultivate a new career as diplomat and stateswoman.

Her lengthy resume mentions her posts as the U.S. ambassador to the Republic of Ghana and U.S. representative to the United Nations.

"My interest is in international relations," she explains. "Serving in Ghana was the best job of my life. I'd be honored to serve again in any capacity."

"HERS IS one of the lesser-edited books," observes Frank Goodall, western regional manager for McGraw-Hill. "She was very particular when she wrote and edited it. She installed a fax machine in her home, and did most of the work herself."

Carmel is Black's 21st stop on a national tour where, at each location, she has been met by equally diverse crowds.

"Aren't we going to have a cryer today?" she asks, playfully. "There was a woman in New York who cried for half an hour. Someone else started crying so I just put them together."

"I have a whole collection of your blue glass," volunteers an enthusiast, referring to one of the Temple tie-in products that sold millions in the '30s. Newspaper columnist Herb Caen says he mixes his martinis in a Shirley Temple cobalt blue pitcher, the formula being "gin to the chin, vermouth to the tooth."

Black describes her childhood self as a little tomboy who preferred mud pies and a rubber knife to dolls. But the studio launched an item that Shirley was starting a doll collection, and she was soon awash in a sea of beribboned darlings. And the dolls that bear her image sold in the thousands, both the licensed and unlicensed versions. It's enough to turn a child's head.

"I don't think I've ever been tired my whole life," quips Black, an amethyst ring twinkling as she signs yet another book. "I've signed about 17,000 of these so far."

Her energy should come in handy. Besides book parties where four generations often turn out to see her, Black will serve as grand marshal of the next Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena. It's actually a repeat performance for her — she previously headed the parade 50 years ago. And her publishers want her to pen the second installment of her autobiography. Child Star concludes with Black's achievements only up to 1954.

With a note of seriousness, she adds, "I believe in the work ethic."

Tree of Life benefits efforts of the Hospice

Almost 3,000 lights now shine on the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula Tree of Life from atop the Monterey Sheraton Hotel. "Every day the tree shines brighter," said Robert Brower, Chairman of the Board of Directors. Gifts have exceeded $43,000 to date.

A gift of $15 or more to Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula dedicates a light. Some of the lights are in memory of individuals who are no longer living, but many buy lights for someone special in their daily lives.

Donation envelopes are available at local police departments, from event sponsors, or by calling the Hospice Development Office at 372-6565.

Anne-Sophie Mutter turns in poetic performance

LOOKING MORE like a prom queen than a world class violinist, Anne-Sophie Mutter both charmed and thrilled a near-capacity audience at Sunset Theater last Saturday night. Ms. Mutter, appearing under the auspices of the Carmel Music Society, was very ably partnered by Lambert Orkis at the piano.

Tartini's over-worked G minor Sonata opened the program, and served the purpose for which it is manifestly destined: to warm up the performer and relax the audience. Mutter played it very well; Orkis was a bit cautious. Really not much hint of what was to come. (I wonder if this sonata would be as popular if it didn't have the silly title of "Devil's Trill"?)

What was to come was Beethoven's F major Sonata, Op. 24, subtitled "Spring." It is also a bit over-worked, but has infinitely more substance than the Tartini. In the hands of Mutter and Orkis, one almost heard the piece for the first time.

This was as poetic a performance of this sonata as I have ever heard, and the collaboration between the two artists was excellent. Eschewing dash and flash, they presented the work in a way that allowed it to speak for itself, and it was breathtaking.

That was a very hard act to follow, and the Franck Sonata which followed intermission did not come up to that standard—which is not to imply, however, that it wasn't good. It just wasn't great. This also is an over-played work which could benefit by some rest. Interestingly, Mutter and Orkis did not seem to agree here as they had on the Beethoven. Mutter's playing was intense and passionate, Orkis was more matter of fact.

Another popular work closed the program, Ravel's vulgar

Tzigane, actually a concerto for violin and orchestra. All great composers are entitled to err now and then—after all, Beethoven wrote Wellington's Victory. If the works are technically spectacular, they may find their way into the repertoire (for example, some of Liszt's rhapsodic piano pieces). Mutter made it look easy, which it isn't, but I still don't like the piece.

There really didn't seem to be any weakness in Mutter's playing. We expect brilliant technique—all concert artists must have that to start. But the other aspects we do not take for granted: excellent intonation, brilliant bow technique, a pianissimo the like of which one rarely hears, very solid and sensitive musicianship. She is also completely free of stage mannerism (no Fun with a Scarf, as we have seen here), putting all her energy where it belongs: in the music.

And she is also lovely to look at! Who said you can't have it all?

The Photographic Center teams images by two artists

The Photographic Center presents the images of Ruth Mayerson Gilbert and Kerry Judd, artists whose vision is dramatic and questioning with a suggestion of unreality.

The work of Gilbert might have been captured in another era. The mystique of her much-praised study "Sight Unseen" transforms butchers delivering carcasses on the streets of Paris into the figures of arcane religious mysteries; burdened white figures in dark spaces, evoking penances and calvaries. Gilbert's gripping study has been exhibited in Amsterdam, London, New York, San Francisco, Mexico City, Seattle and has been reproduced in Zoom, the British journal of photography; Art, Das Kunstmagazin, Northwest Photography and Nippon Photo.

Gilbert says of her work,

"I had seen this happening (the meat delivery) a thousand times and yet...I saw it truly for the first time. Even before the first shot I knew that this should not become a journalistic or even realistic reportage. I didn't want to show the faces of the men. Their mysterious garments and their struggle with the heavy burdens were to be the themes of this study."

In contrast to Gilbert's swathed forms is Kerry Judd's study of "Beyond the Human Form." The nude figures appear to have evolved from the landscape rather than being placed in them. Judd's work has been exhibited in both group and solo exhibits including the Vision Gallery, San Francisco; the Photographers' Gallery in Palo Alto, and the Museum of Photography, Antwerp, Belgium.

He has developed a major interest in composite and multiple imagery within the photographic print and says of his work, "One realizes that often the artist's own feelings and intent may not come across to the viewer. Therefore, my best hope would be to create photographs that are sufficiently ambiguous enough in themselves that they create a receptive climate in which viewers may become desirous of making their own interpretations."

The public is welcome to an opening reception for the photographers on Friday, Jan. 6, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Photographic Center Gallery on San Carlos and Ninth in Carmel. The exhibit will be on view 1 to 5 p.m. daily through Feb. 5.

Remember to drive safely

A November surge in traffic deaths cut sharply into the fatality reduction California has experienced during much of 1988, and the Highway Patrol responded with a special message: Put on your safety belts.

The CHP holiday message for Californians is "give yourself the gift of life this holiday season. The best protection against a drinking driver in another vehicle is a fastened safety belt. Whether you're a driver or a passenger—buckle up," Smith concluded.

You can ruin a life in one stroke.

Even if you live through a stroke, you might face paralysis, loss of speech, or altered behavior. Things that can make life difficult, to say the least. Strokes occur when the blood supply is cut to part of the brain. And if you currently have high blood pressure or any form of heart disease, your risk of stroke is higher than normal. The American Heart Association urges you to control your blood pressure. By doing so, you'll reduce your chances of a stroke. And increase the likelihood of a long, happy life.

FAMILY COMPOUND

HEART OF BIG SUR

Above Big Sur River Valley, looking westwards over coastal hills to the Pacific Ocean, this two-family main residence and complete guest/caretaker A-frame, stand amid stately redwoods. The upper portion of this 16 acres, with its homes and pleasant, sunny orchard, is reached by a country road extending 1/2 mile from the locked gate at the Scenic Highway, to the property's surfaced driveway.

Spacious decks on the west side of the 2400 square foot main residence afford views down Sycamore Canyon over Pfeiffer Beach rocks to the vast Pacific Ocean beyond. The guest house location fully separates it from the main house, providing pleasing seclusion for both.

Inside, on the upper level, is the original house consisting of main living/dining area with fireplace, kitchen/pantry, bath and bedroom/den. The "new" section includes 2 bedrooms with baths and laundry room on upper level, with huge 2-story living room (pictured), plus second kitchen and adjoining darkroom, on lower level.

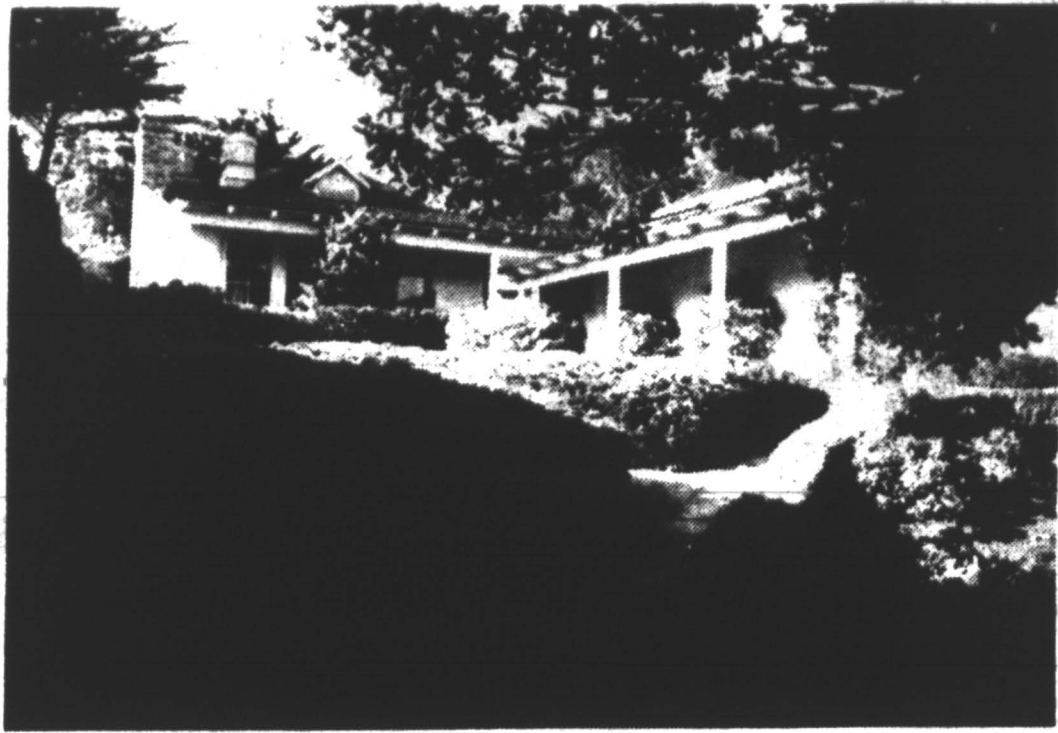

The completely separate A-frame guest/caretaker house is also surrounded by decks enjoying the same lovely views. Both homes are served by PG&E and Pacific Telephone, with water from the private well located on the property. This unusual property, among the wealth of unique and outstanding properties for which Big Sur is well known, lends itself to a variety of uses; it is priced at $595,000.

HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

CARMEL

FRESHLY REMODELED HOME! This charming home, in its desirable south-of-Ocean location, has an appealing country French flavor. Enjoy a tile terrace with access through French doors from the enlarged dining room and from the living room. The new kitchen addition allows room for a pantry and washer/dryer closet and offers access to front patio. A built-in buffet is in the dining room, and there are hardwood floors everywhere except for the 2 bedrooms & 2 baths. Master bedroom has lovely deck. A delightfully refreshed home remodeled for enjoyment. $545,000. 625-4111.

NEW ON THE MARKET! A fabulous two-story, custom-built 3 bedroom, 2½ bath home in prestigious Hatton Fields. A masterpiece of architectural design and quality workmanship! Features include gourmet kitchen with hand-painted tiles, top-of-the-line appliances, and white-washed oak floors. The spacious living room has sunny window seats, French doors leading out to a private patio and lovely landscaped, fenced yard. Stunning Laura Ashley tile decorates the bathrooms, adding to the storybook charm of this home, and a stone fireplace warms the dining-family room. $765,000. 625-0300.

DRAMATIC VIEW CONTEMPORARY! Capturing beautiful views of Point Lobos, the ocean and valley hills, a custom-built contemporary. Living is elegant and spacious with high ceilings and two handsome fireplaces. Three levels assure privacy and add to the unique design of this home, with two bedrooms on the lower level and the master suite on the upper level. Plus formal dining room, large family room, den. Kitchen and decks afford lovely views of Point Lobos. $435,000. 625-0300.

CARMEL PERFECTION! It's not very often that a house perfect in every detail becomes available. That's why you will not want to miss this sophisticated Carmel country cottage in a walk-to-town location. There are 2 bedrooms, 2½ baths in a setting with a southwestern orientation. Vaulted-beamed ceilings, hardwood floors, a pantry, ceramic tile baths, and an exceptional stone fireplace are all features you will not want to miss! $489,000. 625-4111.

STEPS TO CARMEL BEACH! A sophisticated 2 bedroom, 2 bath beach house offering outstanding ocean views from every room. Completely renovated, this home features beam ceilings, French doors opening to large ocean-view deck, spacious living room with fireplace, European cabinetry in kitchen with planter window, master suite with fireplace, elegant bath and large closets, plus plush carpeting throughout. Total of 2 bedrooms & 2 baths. Double garage. $530,000. 625-0300.

COMMERCIAL PROPERTY! Originally built as a residence, this commercial property is currently being used as a clothing store, but is well suited for offices or for a residence upstairs and retail use downstairs. Located in prime area only 1½ blocks off Ocean Avenue. Plus room for expansion! A unique opportunity. $975,000. 625-4111.

MONTEREY

OCEAN VIEW TOWNHOUSE! Offering breathtaking panoramic ocean & forest views, a very special 3 bedroom, 2 bath townhouse in an exclusive development in prime Monterey area. Amenities include a lovely fireplace in the living room, dining area off the living room, and breakfast area in the kitchen. The master suite is on the first level, and 2 bedrooms, bath, and den are on the second level. Plus large ocean-view decks — one off the master bedroom, 2-car garage and swimming pool at complex. $295,000. 625-0300.

BRAND NEW HOME! A beautiful, brand new home due for completion in February. In sunbelt area of town, it offers many inviting features. Some include a vaulted-ceiling living room with fireplace and large bay window, a coffered-ceiling dining room with sliding-glass doors leading to the patio. A delightful sun room with skylight provides an outlook to the cozy garden, and there is a family room opening to the gourmet kitchen. Three bedrooms — luxurious master suite with walk-in closet and see-thru fireplace into master bath, and total of 2½ baths. $395,000. 647-7494.

CARMEL VALLEY

A GREAT VALUE! Near the Village, with C.V. Road access, a beamed-ceiling 3 bedroom redwood home offering southern exposure with a spacious view deck. A wonderful mini-ranch on 16½ acres with plenty of room for children and horses. Butler barn, stalls, paddock & horse arena. Gas tank, Cal-Am water & water tank on parcel. A wonderful mini-ranch, lovely valley views. $650,000. 625-4111.

STYLISH LA RANCHERIA HOME! Lovely valley views plus design & workmanship have made this Valley home very desirable! Adobe walls line the circular drive, and there are 3 spacious bedrooms, 2 baths plus a powder room. Enjoy formal or casual dining — served from the custom, deluxe kitchen, and a family room with wood-burning stove. The house has a wine storage room, 4 fireplaces, wet bar, 1800 sq. ft. of decking, a corral & more. All set on 1.6 landscaped acres enhanced by majestic oaks! $775,000. 625-4111.

SEA & MOUNTAIN VIEWS! Capturing spectacular views from its "top of the hill" acre-plus setting, a spacious home set in a private community near C.V. Ranch. Behind electric gates with brick pillars, the interior of this dramatic home is highlighted by a solid-oak sweeping staircase off the formal living room with fireplace. A fireplace warms the family room, and there is a large dining-kitchen room with doors opening to view decking. Occupying the entire second floor is the ocean-view master suite with fireplace, sitting room and luxurious bathroom. A second master suite is on the first level. $675,000. 625-0300.

FABULOUS 736-ACRE RANCH! Located only 18.2 miles from Highway 1 is the Marble Ranch. Magnificent oak-studded level & rolling acres with a main house, 5 guest houses, outbuildings, bars & corrals and positioned around a lake — against a beautiful backdrop of lush hills. Suitable for horse ranch, vineyards, corporate retreat or gentleman's country estate, affording privacy, sunshine & scenic beauty. Extensive inventory of ranch equipment included. $6,500,000. 625-4111.

PEBBLE BEACH

NEW ON THE MARKET! In excellent condition and within golf-cart distance to MPCC, a charming 2 bedroom, 1½ bath home. Perfect for vacation retreat or permanent home, it has 2 handsome floor-to-ceiling fireplaces, and large family room with Dutch door opening to the lovely, landscaped rear yard. With its charm, comfort, top condition and convenient location, this is a prime home to call your own. $318,000. 647-7494.

STUNNING FRENCH HOME! On a lovely landscaped mostly-level acre is this beautiful and tastefully appointed residence. Only 2-years old, it is light, spacious and offers a very livable floor plan. A high-ceilinged foyer with staircase leads to the upper level, and there are 2 fireplaces — in the living room and dining area. The family room opens to the large and light tile accented kitchen with breakfast alcove. There are 3 bedrooms — master on lower level, and total of 3½ baths. Plus wine storage room, laundry room and terrace overlooking the gardens and low-maintenance grounds. $925,000. 625-4111.

GORGEOUS OCEAN VIEWS! Are seen from the living room, sun-room, family room and master suite of this wonderful Pebble Beach home! Ideal for a couple who desire ocean views, spacious rooms & casual California living without the maintenance of a mansion! Privacy is assured by the gated, fully-fenced 1.3 acre site on 17-Mile Drive. Fireplaces warm the living and family rooms, both enhanced by extensive bookshelves and built-in cabinets. There are a total of 2 bedrooms, 2 full baths and 2 half baths, plus gallery entry, formal dining room, den/office or utility room, and butler's pantry off the kitchen. Now $1,180,000. 625-4111.

GRACIOUS ESTATE IN SUNBELT AREA! One-story spacious contemporary set on 1½ beautifully landscaped acres. Light & sunshine throughout enhanced by skylights, cathedral ceilings, built-in bookcases and large windows with outlook to forest & filtered ocean views. Most rooms open to the wraparound sun-deck and manicured lawn. There are 3 fireplaces — brick with raised hearth in the living room with wet bar, family room, formal dining room with mirrored wall, a study off the "great room" with wet bar, 4 bedrooms & 5 baths. Gated, circular drive entry. $1,200,000. 625-4111.

ELEGANT MEDITERRANEAN ESTATE! Set on 2.5 magnificently landscaped acres above The Lodge, offering sweeping ocean views from Carmel Beach to Point Lobos, a gracious 5 bedroom, 6 bath estate home. With a gated, circular drive entry, this meticulously tended, finely appointed large-roomed home is delightful both for family living and for entertaining on a large scale. Amenities include a handsome library, 6 fireplaces, hardwood & tiled floors and hardwood stairways and accents. Two-bedroom guest cottage and studio guest suite. Five-car garage. A one-of-a-kind property! Now $4,000,000. 625-4111.
